Police Officers Probe Death Of Evans City Girl

Dorothy Wilson Is Dead At Home From Bullet Wound

YOUTH IS HELD FOR QUESTIONING

Girl Is Shot With Revolver That Belonged In Home

(International News Service)

BUTLER, Pa., Nov. 30.—State police here today held Richard Kelly, 28, as they probed the mysterious death yesterday of Dorothy Wilson, 26, daughter of Dr. H. M. Wilson, prominent Evans City physician.

The girl's body, fully clad, was found on her bed by her father when he was awakened by a shot and hurried to his daughter's room. Beside the girl lay a revolver.

Youth Is Questioned

Dashing downstairs, the father met Kelly, who had escorted the girl home from a party here. The youth, at Dr. Wilson's request, summoned another physician, then left for his home. There he was taken into custody a short time later and taken to the state police barracks where he was held incommunicado for questioning.

State police called to the Wilson home said the girl had been shot with a revolver owned by her father but kept in another room. Whether they believed the shooting a suicide was not disclosed.

Kelly told authorities he had escorted the girl home and waited in the living room while she went upstairs. A moment later, he said, he heard the shot and started upstairs, to meet Dr. Wilson descending with the announcement of his daughter's death.

PA NEWC OBSERVES

Rabbits and birds who have escaped the hunters this far are practically safe, as few small game hunters will be out in the woods today, hunting conditions being too unfavorable. Tomorrow, however, the small game will be as unsafe as human beings in the deer hunting territory.

A year ago, we had three inches of snow according to the records. This year we had approximately the same amount of precipitation, but it was in the form of rain.

Farmers will welcome the damp weather, as it will give their wells and springs an opportunity to fill up before cold weather sets in. A week

Japanese War Office Enters Controversy On Policy In Manchuria

By JAMES R. YOUNG
International News Service Staff Correspondent
(International News Service)

TOKYO, Nov. 30—The Japanese war office today took a hand in the controversy between Washington and Tokyo over statements made by American Secretary of State Henry L. Stimson concerning Japanese policy in Manchuria.

Although the foreign office revoked its criticism of Stimson holding that he had been incorrectly quoted by a Japanese news agency in declaring that the Japanese army had "run amuck" the war office charged that either Stimson or W. Cameron Forbes, United States ambassador to Japan, had given out inaccurate accounts of Japanese military policy with respect to the status of Chinchow.

The war office declared that no promise had been made to Stimson as was indicated by the State Department in Washington, that Japanese troops would not occupy Chinchow.

It was stated that the policy in Manchuria was to refrain from any

Governor Calls Chairmen Of Important Committees To Conference

NINE BILLS ARE ON CALENDAR

State Legislators Will Be Back In Session Tonight —May Compromise

By LEO V. DOLAN

HARRISBURG, Nov. 30.—Roused by the action of a group of leaders in the administration-controlled house in formulating an opposition relief program, Gov. Gifford Pinchot today took definite action to avert the wrecking of his own $129,000,000 unemployment aid proposals.

The governor summoned into conference chairmen of several important senate committees with the reported purpose of impressing on them that his original program must be pushed through both house and senate if relief is to be extended by the state this winter.

Conference Today.

Ostensibly the conferees—including Senators Frank E. Baldwin, Potter; Harry B. Scott, Centre, and John J. McClure, Delaware;—are to meet the governor before the legislature convenes tonight to discuss only matters of minor importance. It was regarded as significant, however, that while the governor indicated the conferences would not deal

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 30.—Mayor James J. Walker of New York City, suffering from a severe cold, was under the care of a physician today. But his condition was not serious and he felt confident he would be able to appear tomorrow at the public hearing before the governor of California to make a plea for a pardon for Tom Mooney.

Dr. John Gallwey, a leading physician of San Francisco, ordered Mayor Walker to bed as a precautionary measure against influenza. He found the mayor's lungs congested and his temperature and blood pressure subnormal.

Shortly before he took to his bed Mayor Walker paid a visit to the scene of the Preparedness Day bombing in San Francisco in 1916 when 10 persons were killed and 40 injured. It is for alleged participation in this outrage that Mooney is serving a life sentence in San Quentin. The spot where the bomb

QUAI D'ORSAY, Paris, Nov. 30.—In an effort to break down Japanese objections to establishment of a neutral zone in the Chinchow area of Manchuria, Aristide Briand President of the League of Nations Council, today disclaimed any intention on the part of the league to interpose an "international body of neutral troops" between the Japanese and Chinese forces.

The council's intention, Briand informed Kenkichi Yoshisawa, chief Japanese delegate, was merely to have neutral military attaches actually on the spot take necessary measures to avoid new Sino-Japanese conflicts.

Demand For Relief Is Mounting Daily

With the demand for relief mounting daily, there is still need for more funds by the mayor's relief committee.

Food and clothing are to be distributed to those in need, a start having been made on the distribution of groceries last week.

With the exception of those unable to work because of illness or infirmities, only those who have been working on the city projects are being given orders at the present time. Approximately 30 a day are being filled, Warren, Broadbent, who is in charge of the distribution at the Carnegie auditorium stated this morning.

Orders are not given out until the applicant shows he has worked his required time on the projects. The applicant is given one order for each day he works, the men being worked in two-day shifts and an order is given out each week, the applicants working week about.

Each order distributed contains a small sack of flour, peck of potatoes, two pounds sugar, can of milk, several pounds each of rice, macaroni, beans and rolled oats, in addition to five pounds of corn meal and two pounds of bacon. There are also some turnips on hand and these are given to ones wanting them.

There is a big demand at the present time for clothing and distribution of shoes and clothes will be started this week by the relief committee.

In the meantime contributions to the mayor's relief fund are continuing to come in, the total being $2,623.

Those who have not already subscribed are asked to fill out the accompanying coupon and will mail or bring it to City Treasurer L. W. McClung, who is treasurer of the committee.

Pinchot Swings Hard Verbal Uppercut At Senator Jas. J. Davis

(BULLETIN)
(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, Pa., Nov. 30.—Gov. Gifford Pinchot today swung a hard verbal uppercut in the fourth round of his "I dare you" sparring match with Senator James J. Davis by announcing that one-fourth of his 1930 gross income of $52,650.46 would be contributed to the relief of unemployment distress. The governor said his net income was $37,139.49.

At the same time the executive declared that Senator Davis' proposal that each man contribute his entire income, and that of his wife, to charity was "fantastic and obviously not in good faith."

Last week the governor "dared" Davis to make as large a contribution to unemployment relief as the governor contemplated. Davis replied by offering to give the entire income of himself and Mrs. Davis, suggesting that Governor Pinchot do likewise. The senator also suggested income tax returns of both officials be made public in order

TROPHIES ARE STOLEN AT UNION HIGH SCHOOL

Burglars Enter Scotland Lane School And Carry Off Athletic Trophies

County Detective And State Police Are Working On Robbery

Burglars last night robbed the Union township high school of silverplated athletic trophies. While the trophies may not possess a large monetary value they were highly valued for sentimental reasons. A small amount of cash left in an office desk was not disturbed.

County Detective H. M. Lee and State police are conducting an investigation. Union township high school was robbed about a year ago.

The trophies stolen represented the honors which Union high athletes have won during the past few years. All of them, excepting one were engraved. For this season, it is pointed out the thieves will have difficulty in selling the trophies.

Trophies Taken

The trophies taken were for football, basketball and baseball honors. The football trophy was put up by a local concern for the Tri-County league. Bessemer and Union township had each won a leg on the cup. The permanent owner of the cup has not yet been established.

Two basketball trophies were taken. One was awarded Union high for winning the position of 'runner up' in the Westminster college tournament last year and the other was for 1928 honors. The baseball trophy was a Spalding cup presented for 1929 honors.

The robbery was staged last night and was discovered at 7:30 a. m. today by Janitor H. B. Miller. The

Toy Collection Of McBride Post Brings Response

Many Contributions Are Being Made To Collection By Citizens Of City

WILL DISTRIBUTE TOYS TO ALL IN NEED

Work of collecting toys for the needy children of the city is meeting with a splendid response, Chairman F. L. Wimer of the committee representing the Harry L. McBride post, Veterans of Foreign Wars, stated this morning.

Work of repairing the toys that need renovating has already been started and by Christmas time it is hoped to have enough on hand to remember every needy child in the city.

Last year the vets started the work as a relief measure among the families of deserving ex-service men, but because of the dire need among so many families this year, the work has been broadened and will include the families of all who are in need of assistance.

The storeroom which has been secured in Apple way, where Moore's restaurant was formerly located, is beginning to fill up already, and each day finds more citizens helping to swell the collection.

Every resident of the city is asked to go through the assortment of toys stored about their homes and to donate those which are no longer wanted to the vets for distribution at Christmas time.

A meeting was held last week with Troop 15. Boy Scouts, and they expressed their eagerness to assist in the movement. Troop 17 will be visited by the committee this week, and the work outlined for them.

The approval of the Lawrence county council of Boy Scouts in this movement is shown by the following letter from H. G. Horton, scout executive of the council:

"To whom it may concern:

"The Veterans of Foreign Wars are planning to conduct a toy collection, repair and distribute as a community service during the holiday season. Two of our local scout troops, 15 and 17, have already pledged cooperation in this and any other troops who might like to assist, are invited to do so.

"A good community turn of this nature is in accordance with the national policy governing such work and has the approval of the local scout office.

advance except in self-defense, but that troops would have been sent against Chinchow if the Japanese position had been menaced by Chinese attacks from that quarter.

This policy, the war office said, was explained by foreign minister Shidehara to Ambassador Forbes, but was given a different interpretation by the time it was made public by American officials in Washington.

Stimson and Forbes were blamed by the war office for the misinterpretation.

Before the war office entered the controversery the atmosphere had been cleared by a foreign office statement apologizing for the "impulsive expressions" of criticisms of Secretary Stimson.

The foreign office spokesman said that it was plain that Stimson had been misquoted, and that incident would be regarded as closed.

You'll notice, however, that talk of economy includes no suggestion of a cut in the pay of Congressmen.

A well known social worker says that what this country needs is softer seats in patrol wagons.

of rain wouldn't hurt things, some of the farmers report.

There are more people unemployed in New Castle this year than there were last, and citizens of the community should keep this thought in mind as the appeal for the Mayor's Relief Fund is presented to them. Up in Grove City, a town of little more than 5,000, they raised $8,000 in one day.

Christmas trees are already being shipped into this district from the great north woods and from Canada.

With Lawrence county open for deer hunting, and with deer reported in the woods of the county at several localities, Pa Newc is interested in hearing who is the first hunter to bring down a deer in the county. Make a report, hunters.

Pa Newc would suggest a test for the new fire engine that would show its benefit. Start the new truck and the present Park avenue machine from the Park avenue station at the same time, in response to an alarm from the outer North Hill region, and see how much quicker the new truck reaches the scene, and is ready for action, than the old one.

Pa Newc is still of the opinion that the berms along the narrow Wilmington road should be given attention. Mud along the highway yesterday made traffic conditions rather treacherous in many places, as the skiddy mud was working over onto the paving. Ashes or limestone should be used for filling in along the paving, if the permanent extension is not provided.

Tons and tons of ashes are being hauled and deposited along the hills on the many state highways in this section, ready for use in the winter snows. The dangerous hills on the highways are kept well ashed when they show tendencies of becoming slippery.

The last rose of summer seems quite out of date this year. Pa Newc observed a nice big pink rose blooming along the bank of the Neshannock on the property of the Carnegie Steel company. One wouldn't expect to see a rose blooming there at any time, and it is a particular novelty at this time of the year.

Lots of deer hunters were observed about town this morning, as different hunting parties prepared to leave for the woods. Red caps and red coats were quite conspicuous.

Pa Newc wouldn't wonder but what the postoffice janitor was a bit riled as he arrived at the building this morning to find money order blanks strewn everywhere on the lobby floor. The blanks, provided for the convenience of patrons, were evidently thrown about by someone to whom that appealed as sport. Authorities frowned on it.

The City Rescue Mission made another appeal today for a family that lost everything it had through a recent fire. The mission wants furniture or clothing.

It's funny, this superstition stuff—but railroaders seem to have some faith in it. Recently publicity was given to the splendid record of safety that a certain department had attained and the effort it planned to stress to keep it. Within 24 hours after that news came a series of minor accidents. Now the men prefer to hush their safety excellence.

Some pedestrians about Mercer and North streets thought a fire was raging this morning as they caught sight of billows of smoke around nearby buildings. It proved, however, to be only a chimney burning out.

And if a man makes a better mouse trap, the world will make a beaten path to his door to serve papers for patent infringements.

Correct this sentence: "If I were driving a truck like that," said the man, "I'd give other cars room to pass."

PINCHOT TAKES STEPS TO SAVE RELIEF PROGRAM

with important problems, he did not reveal what matters would be discussed.

Senators Baldwin, Scott and McClure are members of the subcommittees of the senate appropriations and finance committees, scheduled to meet late today with sub-committees of the House Ways and Means committee and the House Finance committee in an effort to iron out the controversial question of whether a comprehensive relief program depends on enactment of additional tax measures.

Although a group of house leaders have sponsored a tax-less relief program designed to yield $12,500,000 for unemployment relief, with a grand total of $27,000,000 estimated if a gasoline tax of one cent per gallon for fifteen months is imposed, it is believed the plan will be dropped if the governor and the three senate leaders agree on a compromise today.

Refuses Compromise.

Governor Pinchot, thus far, has declined to compromise on his original program. Political observers professed to see in his summons to the senate leaders the first extension of the olive branch since the general assembly convened three weeks ago.

Nine bills will be on the calendar when the fourth week of the special session opens tonight. In the senate, the bill sponsored by Senator Earnest, Dauphin, providing for erection of a new office building for state departments here is on third reading as also is the Spangler house bill carrying an appropriation to defray expenses of the season. The Woodward bill providing for taxing of certain property in first class counties now exempt from such levy is on second reading.

Highway Bill Up.

In the house the Williams bill permitting the state highway department to improve, construct and rebuild streets in municipalities with the consent of the governor and the proper local authorities will be called up for second reading. Other bills on the house calendar provide for amendments to the constitution which would permit legislation in the future to deal with situations similar to the present, including an amendment making possible the issuance of prosperity bonds.

TROPHIES ARE STOLEN AT UNION HIGH SCHOOL

burglars went to the rear of the building, stood on an iron railing and used a 'jimmy' to force open a window which let them into the auditorium.

They went through the hall and broke a pane of glass in the cafeteria door. Inside the cafeteria they forced open a cupboard but failed to open a drawer which contained a considerable amount of silverware. An extra lock which was hidden caused the burglars failure here.

Smash Door Open

After being foiled in the cafeteria they walked through the hall, leaving mud prints. They tried to force open the outer office door of the principal, R. F. Conway and temporarily failed. They ruthlessly smashed a large pane of door glass, turned the lock and entered.

They evidently did not bother the desk of Morgan Boyd, athletic coach as $7.50 in cash, which was in a drawer was not disturbed. They then smashed a pane of glass, reached through and opened the inner office door.

It was in this room that the trophies were kept. All of the filing cases show that they were tampered with but so far as Professor Conway knew after a hurried examination this morning no records were stolen but all the silver plated trophies were gone.

School authorities are highly incensed. The trophies were valued for sentimental reasons and the damage incurred during the theft will be costly. Evidently an iron instrument, probably a chisel, was used to 'jimmy' the rear windows, drawers and smash the glass indoors.

It is not believed that an automobile was used in the robbery as shoe prints on the floor showed that the burglars had walked along Scotland Lane. One of the men used tobacco as it could be seen where he had expectorated in the offices.

County Detective Lee was advised of the robbery early this morning. He secured the aid of State police from Butler barracks. It is possible that finger prints may be taken, which may aid in the apprehension of the burglars.

The Good Old Daze—Of course it's wrong to sell liquor, but you can't expect the bootleggers to give it away.

that it would be made known whether cach was giving the full amount.

The governor's formal reply to the senator was:

"Senator Davis' reply to my proposal is fantastic and obviously not in good faith, nad requires no further attention. Therefore, I proceed to do as I proposed without him.

"For 1930, the last year reported to the U. S. treasury department, my net income, upon which the federal income tax is figured, was $37,-139.49. Gross income was $52,650.46.

"My contributions to relief this year will amount to a quarter of my gross income for 1930. If my gross income in 1931 is larger than in 1930, I will contribute one-quarter of that sum."

The governor's 1930 income does not include any portion of his $18,-000 gubernatorial salary, since he did not take office until January of this year. His salary as governor is exempt from federal income tax. His 1931 gross income therefore will approximate $70,000, which indicates a contribution of approximately $17,500 to relief.

The income he named does not include any income accruing to his wife, Mrs. Cornelia Bryce Pinchot, reputedly wealthier than her husband.

The governor's comment today, it was indicated, closes his interchange with Senator Davis as far as the governor is concerned.

Davis' Reply

WASHINGTON, Nov. 30.—Senator James J. Davis (R) Pennsylvania, today declined to continue his controversy with Governor Gifford Pinchot of Pennsylvania over unemployment relief contributions.

Told what Pinchot said today about his proposal that both of them contribute all their income to charity, Davis said tersely:

"P. T. Barnum, the master showman, always had a way out."

Mayor Walker's forthcoming plea for a pardon for Mooney has created considerable interest all over California and has drawn a barrage of criticism from the press, pulpit and private individuals. The mayor is seemingly unmindful of the criticism and outwardly is paying no attention to it.

Walker Criticised

The mayor's 3,000-mile trip to aid Mooney has caused a flood of letters to be sent to the office of Governor James Rolph Jr., at Sacramento. The governor's secretary estimated today that more than a hundred communications have been received on the Mooney case since the mayor's arrival. Most of the letters protested Walker's action in coming to California to plead "as a lawyer and private citizen" for Mooney.

Mayor Walker, a gifted orator with a reputation for sparkling wit, is expected to make one of the most brilliant speeches of his career in pleading for Mooney tomorrow. Within the last 48 hours he has held long conferences with Frank P. Walsh, senior counsel for Mooney, and questioned him at length on various phases of the cases. Walsh, who is to outline the historical background of the long fight to free Mooney at tomorrow's hearing, is an authority on the Mooney case.

Plans Are Made

Governor Rolph was to confer today with his legal advisers on the final plans for his own participation in the new Mooney pardon application presentation by Mayor Walker and his associates. The governor, upon his return from Los Angeles, will meet with Judge Matt L. Sullivan, John L. McNab and Theodore J. Roche, the men who will act as his legal staff at tomorrow's proceedings in the state supreme courtroom.

Police Solve Theft Of Goods In Short Order

Four Youths Implicated Are Rounded Up In Speedy Fashion By Local Officers

Report was made to the police about 7:30 o'clock last night of the theft of candy, Christmas cards and other articles from the parked car of Woody McGregor, which was located on North Jefferson street, between Sycamore Way and North street.

Officers Dukes and Hanna, answering the call, searched the downtown district thoroughly and finally came upon a mere youth on Apple Way, between Market Way and South street, whose actions were suspicious.

A little investigation on the part of the officers and they had learned that this boy, and also three other boys, had been implicated in the theft from the McGregor car.

The four boys were apprehended and this morning Mayor W. H. Gillespie authorized three of them turned over to Juvenile Court Oficer J. M. Dunlap to await action in their case. The fourth boy of the group, it being his first offense, was discharged.

Among the loot recovered since the apprehension by the local police were candy, cigar lighter, screw driver, pliers, Christmas cards. In addition the police found a fine pair of gloves which the boys state they took from a car parked on the public square in front of the Hileman block; a lock, ruler and other small items. The owner of the gloves may secure same by proving property.

The three older boys were turned over to Juvenile Court Officer J. M. Dunlap, while the younger one of the group, owing to his extreme youth and the fact that he has never before been in police court, was discharged.

New Plan By Makers of Vicks VapoRub for Better "Control-of-Colds"

Another advance in "Control-of-Colds" has been perfected by the makers of Vicks VapoRub. A third of a century ago, Vicks VapoRub introduced the modern, external method of "treating" colds. Now, Vick Chemists introduce Vicks Nose & Throat Drops—based on a new idea in "preventing" colds. These two are companion products—they aid and supplement each other. Together, they make possible the Vick Plan for better "Control-of-Colds" in the home and further reduction of the family "Colds-Tax"—in money, loss of time and health.

Here, briefly, is the Vick Plan for better "Control-of-Colds":

1.—Before a Cold Starts

At that first sneezy, scratchy irritation of the nose or upper throat—Nature's unmistakable warning that you are "catching cold"—use Vicks Nose Drops promptly as directed. Many colds can be checked at this stage and bad colds avoided.

If you catch cold easily, the wise plan is to use just a few Vicks Nose Drops up each nostril after exposure to any particular condition that your own experience tells you is apt to give you a cold—for instance, a night on a Pullman—a dusty automobile ride—over-smoking, overheated, over-crowded rooms, etc.—and you feel that slightest stuffiness of the nasal passages. Vicks Drops are especially designed to aid the nose—Nature's "preventor" of colds—when over-taxed by such emergencies of our artificial present-day living.

2.—After a Cold Starts

At night, massage the throat and chest well with Vicks VapoRub (now available in white "stainless" form if you prefer). Spread on thick and cover with warm flannel. Leave the bed-clothing loose around the neck so that the medicated vapors arising can be inhaled freely all night long. During the day—any time, any place—use Vicks Nose Drops as needed for ease and comfort. (If there is a cough, you will like the new Vicks Cough Drop—actually medicated with ingredients of Vicks VapoRub).

This gives you full 24-hour treatment and without the risks of too much internal "dosing," which so often upsets the digestion—especially of children—and lowers body strength at a time when Nature most needs it to resist disease. Don't "dose" colds except on your doctor's advice.

Trial Offer to Vick Users

The Vick Plan for better "Control-of-Colds" has been tested—and proved. But the makers want all users of Vicks VapoRub to test it for themselves in their own homes. Get a bottle of Vicks Drops from your druggist today. Try the plan as directed. If results are not more than satisfactory, your druggist is authorized to refund your money.

ONE MORE WEEK AND THEN CONGRESS

FEDERAL finances stare the new congress, which will meet one week from today, right in the face. The president's message, which will be forwarded when senate and house are in a condition of organization to receive it, is awaited eagerly in Washington and, for that matter, by the country in general. It will, of course, conform to the economic studies and views of the secretary of the treasury. There is a huge deficit—and a growing one—which must be met. A long-term bond issue would tide over the period of depression, but the more the public debt is piled up the more must be paid out in interest. Increased income and selective sales taxes are in the mind of the administration, while some members of congress look with favor upon a combined loan and increased tax levy. Senator Robison of Arkansas is of this class.

The situation is complicated by the presence of blocs of Insurgents in both branches. During the week the two sets of malcontents held conferences in preparation for the coming session. In the house they number well up to thirty. In the senate about fourteen can usually be counted upon to stick together for a common cause. They are powerful enough, when pulling together, to swing the balance of power. They will have all sorts of proposed legislation of their own, and they intend, if possible, to win the right to bring their schemes to the attention of both senate and house—to force consideration on the floor.

There will be weird schemes. There is Senator Norris of Nebraska, for instance, who insists upon an immediate bond issue of $3,000,000,000. What for? For clearing away estimated deficits? Not at all. On the contrary he would go into debt to that amount for creating employment on public works. Propaganda of the William Randolph Hearst organization lifts the $3,000,000,000 to $5,000,000,000. And how would Norris swell the government's revenue to square obligations? Easily enough. Why increase the higher income tax schedules to an unbearable rate, which would defeat its own purpose in supplying the treasury with funds, and confiscate large portions of inheritances, even to 75 per cent. And if that wouldn't furnish enough revenue, borrow money to the extent required. Norris is particularly fond of robbing graveyards.

Political leaders when in the minority may advance extravagant plans for partisan purposes. But when they succeed to authority—which they will do in the house—they are apt to realize that responsibility is upon their shoulders and to choose a more moderate course. The tendency of Democratic spokesmen in congress is now apparently toward conservatism. And that is as it should be. Satisfactory financial rehabilitation of a government can not be brought about along purely partisan lines. Especially when, as in this case, it is essential that radicals under the direction of Senator Norris must be put to rout, an accord between parties becomes necessary. Therefore the proposals to be submitted by President Hoover should be received with all seriousness and discussed calmly and with a desire to produce beneficial results.

That some additional revenue from incomes will be decreed is probable. But the whole question needs to be handled with the utmost care lest grave injustice be done with small benefit to the federal treasury. There are important possibilities in a well-regulated sales tax and this source of revenue should be given close consideration.—Philadephia Inquirer.

COXEY'S FINANCE SCHEME

"General" Jacob S. Coxey, wealthy and eccentric champion of the masses, recently elected mayor of the industrial city of Massillon, O., expects to have a good time putting into practice theories he has been advocating for nearly half a century.

Most intriguing among his projects is his $200,000 bond issue for relief. He proposes to issue the bonds in denominations of 25 cents, 50 cents, $1, $5 and $10, so that they can be used as local currency. Instead of selling them, the city treasurer will pay them out to city employes and workmen as salaries and wages.

He will also distribute the bonds directly in relief work, paying them to the needy unemployed, who in return will give the city their pledges to work out the sum later. This, the mayor-elect explains, will be like a "salary advance."

Everybody, including merchants, he is sure, will accept these "bonds" as real money, at face value. If they will, then this hard-headed, tight-fisted, gold-standard country is going to learn something new in finance.

A CHRISTMAS CONTRAST

Those who feel their preparations for Christmas a burden and a perplexity may perhaps glean consolation from a contrast of their lot with that of General Washington, when, just 155 years ago, he was making plans for his Christmas festivities at Trenton.

Washington's state of mind was frankly disclosed in a letter he wrote to his brother on December 19:

"We are in a very disaffected part of the province; and between you and me, I think our affairs are in a very bad situation. You can form no idea of the perplexity of my situation. No man, I believe, ever had a greater choice of difficulties, and less means to extricate himself from them. However, under a full persuasion of the justice of our cause, I cannot entertain an idea that it will finally sink, though it may remain for some time under a cloud."

Finally, he wrote on December 23, from the camp above Trenton falls:

"Christmas Day at night, one hour before day, is the time fixed for our attempt on Trenton. For heaven's sake, keep this to yourself, as the discovery of it may prove fatal to us."

How vastly different is the picture the United States presents today than the provinces did in the dark days of the Revolution. For this happy season the nation is largely indebted to the heroes and heroic deeds of that unhappy season.

This is the season of the year when magazine artists paint their June covers.

All Of Us

We Remember Pain and Terror And Not Unpleasantly Why Is That?

By MARSHALL MASLIN

Why do we like to remember our moments of pain and terror?

Those tragic instants when we stood face to face with the mysterious unknown and discovered for our own selves that it was not so bad, or was more terrible than we had ever dreamed it could be.

I remember when I was a little fellow and a boy I had often played with was drowned in the yellow Sacramento river. I remember how, for weeks, I would think of how his poor young body was rolled over and over in the twisting currents of that California river.

I remember another boy who made a cave in a sand bank and the roof fell in upon him and he was smothered, and it was sadly exciting for his young friends to attend his funeral and wear white gloves and follow his small coffin to the grave.

I remember when my father died. I loved him. He was kind to us. He made things, with tools, for us, and he was not very severe when we raided his workshop and used his chisels and got nicks in them and broke his drills and dulled his saws. I think of the time he died and my mind, distinct from my heart's grief, wanders unrebuked over every trifling incident of those days.

I remember a friend who was killed in the war. I had stopped to talk to him on the road. He said good-bye with a laugh and fell lifeless a hundred yards away. I remember now that I was more furious than agonized and very often I think of that.

I remember an experience of my own from which I did not dare to think I would emerge alive. . . . It was a nightmare of mustard gas that made me sick and made me vomit, of shell that fell too close, of poor, torn bodies, of wild excitement and complete fatigue and sodden disgust. . . . And looking back I see, I feel, I KNOW that I think not unpleasurable of those tragic scenes.

I am sure, also, that we are all like that. We do not thrink from the worst we have known. Almost we glory in it. And how can such things be.

I cannot be certain, but I have an idea that we are tougher, stronger, more enduring than we suspect. We say that we want happiness and security, and that we wish our lives to run placidly along from their little sources to their limitless oblivion—but that is not true. We wish then to be exciting and dangerous, we wish more than all else to be made known to ourselves. And so, looking back we glory in our troubles, and like to believe that once, when we were young, we were tough!

SELF-CONTROL

Recently you have realized that when work "piles up on you" you become nervous and erratic.

Instead of thoughtfully and actively undertaking your tasks, you jab around in a slip-shod nervous way, incapable of efficient work.

That old nervous system gets beyond control and it's a serious matter.

Movements uncertain, brain muddled, too wrought up generally to do anything worthwhile.

And the longer you permit this condition to continue the more serious it will become and the harder to gain control of yourself.

Therefore the wisest thing anyone can do is to study out self-control and make a habit of it.

It will not be easy.

At first it may seem to you that you are not trying hard enough.

But to "try hard" and "to do relaxed work" are quite two different things.

You are perhaps so accustomed to nervous effort that the very condition where less constrained work is possible may seem being too easy with yourself.

Don't go the extreme of lacking interest and desire for rapid accomplishment but begin easy and gradually increase steam as you get your stride.

RED CROSS SEALS

The Red Cross Seal is just a scheme
To coax the pennies from the purse,
And yet I see it and I think
To one whose parched throat begs for drink
In his despair how sweet must seem
The coming of the Red Cross Nurse.

The Red Cross Seal is just a stamp
Which in itself is valueless,
And yet somehow behind its face
I see the great heart of our race
Pitching on tragic sites a camp
To comfort men in their distress.

The Red Cross Seal is nothing more
Than paper, printer's ink and glue.
And yet through flood and fire and quake
A brotherhood, for mercy's sake
I vision, flung the wide-world o'er
The noblest work of men to do.

Taxation Puzzle Promises To Be Outstanding Issue

Proposals For Taking Care Of Expected Deficit Cover Wide Range, With People As Well As Congress Unable To Agree On Fairest Solution

While Congress is expected to solve the Federal deficit problem, and the preliminary debates give promise of a spirited discussion, both political parties in the closely divided houses are exhibiting a desire to avoid responsibility for measures which are likely to decrease their own popularity or increase that of their opponents. The editorial comment of the country is as divided as the legislators themselves, the points of dispute being whether the next taxation, generally held to be necessary, shhall take the form of increased income taxes; if so, whether it shall be applied to the higher incomes or to all grades of incomes, or whether a sales-tax on luxuries and semi-luxuries might not prove fairer to everybody. Some hold that long-term borrowing with accompanying governmental economies, would make increased taxation unnecessary. A disposition on the part of leaders of the various factions to approach the subject as of national scope and eliminate politics is suggested as a highly desirable basis for legislation.

Recognizing that "no matter what the ultimate outcome of the deliberations is, it will be unpopular," the COLUMBUS OHIO STATE JOURNAL sees "both Republican and Democratic leaders planning their strategy and seeking to shift the blame onto the shoulders of their opponents." However, for Congress "to attempt to play either for private advantage or to public prejudice would be poor statesmanship and poorer politics," in the opinion of the MIAMI DAILY NEWS, which advises that that body "should be expected to face its fiscal problem in a spirit of broad statesmanship." The CLEVELAND PRESS holds that "Democrats who want their party to mean something and to lead will forego questionable advantages that might be gained by playing politics with taxes, and will set about preparing an intelligent and liberal program."

The YAKIMA DAILY REPUBLIC offers the judgment: "Few if any Congressmen have the courage to tell the majority of their constituents that they must bear their share of the burdens of government; politicians fear that any such frank statement would defeat them for re-election, and they may be right because the people have been spoiled so long by being relieved—or seemingly relieved—of the duty of paying for their government that they might resent another and more candid policy. Nothing is more conducive to good government than a knowledge on the part of the people that they, themselves, are paying the bill."

Pointing out that "all the people, in the long run, must bear the cost of government," the CINCINNATI TIMES-STAR holds that "they will have to show the lawmakers that they are interested in public finance, if they are to have any sort of protection from the tax spenders."

"Long-term borrowing, plus drastic economies, not incompatible with the maintenance of essential public services," contends the CHICAGO DAILY NEWS, "would meet the requirements of the present and prospective federal situation. But the adoption of a formula barring new taxes, or the restoration of old taxes, presupposes courageous statesmanship. Too many members of Congress prefer the easier but demagogic plan of 'taking the rich' by upward revision of income and inheritance taxes, and the whole insurgent group, which may hold the balance of power in the senate, is committed to a program of frank class legislation. Inflexible opposition to such a program is expected by few experienced observers. Still, it would be gratifying were moderate Republicans and level-headed Democrats to unite in support of a revenue program emphasizing public economy."

Quoting Senator Smoot, chairman of the Finance Committee, as believing that the President should "lay the needs of the country before Congress but recommend no specific plan," the SALT LAKE DESERET NEWS argues: "If the Chief Executive reports the condition and needs of the country without a specific plan, Congress will, it would appear, be more likely to compromise for the best interests of the country." The CHARLESTON (W. VA.) DAILY MAIL thinks, however, that "it remains to be seen whether such a program as the administration will offer will meet with the acceptance of Congress, or whether the House of Representatives will offer one of its own in opposition to any plan which may be proposed by the administration, and thus a campaign issue be joined right here."

As to definite proposals for taxation to meet the need for increased revenue the SOUTH BEND TRIBUNE comments: "Some legislators favor widely diffused increases. Indeed, a federal sales tax on necessities has been proposed, but that seems to be out of the question. Other legislators would make a small minority among the taxpayers carry all the load. It is a foregone conclusion that some taxes abandoned in the period of national prosperity will be restored." The HOUSTON CHRONICLE concludes: "Apparently the best program for Congress is to increase slightly the income rates in the higher brackets (certainly from a political viewpoint this must be done) and to levy a sales tax on articles in the luxury and semi-luxury classes. The process will not be without its painfulness. At that, however, the experience may serve us in future days by teaching us to keep federal expenditures within the bounds of prospective revenue, and to provide a more stable basis for national revenue than the income tax system permits."

Indorsement of the sales tax as "fair and impartial" is voiced by the AKRON BEACON JOURNAL, while the WORCESTER EVENING GAZETTE declares: "To understand how really light would be the burden of a general sales tax, one has only to consider the enormous volume of the nation's retail business." The PHILADELPHIA INQUIRER believes that, "if properly drawn and enacted, a sales tax would burden no one," and that, "what is more, it would be productive, which cannot be said of a raid on incomes."

Among the proponents of the plan to increase the rate for the higher incomes is the WHEELING INTELLIGENCER, which argues that "unless the great bulk of the new revenue comes from large income and inheritance taxation, and a minimum from small incomes and sales taxes, the burden will not be distributed fairly." The PASADENA STAR-NEWS pleads that "the small income should not have increased burdens."

On the other hand, the SCHENECTADY GAZETTE holds that "a mistake was made several years ago in eliminating a great number of income tax payers by raising the exemption." The NEW YORK TIMES states: "It is evident that higher surtaxes can be made to yield only a limited amount of revenue. Other possibilities must be explored. It will be wise to consider carefully the arguments for and against Senator Smoot's proposal for a selective sales tax, as well as those bearing on Senator Bingham's plan for a two-cent stamp tax on bank checks, Senator Reed's suggestion for an increase in inheritance taxes, and all other proposals that may be made. To raise at once by taxation the full amount of $2,000,000,000 required to balance the budget is impossible and probably undesirable. The important point is for the Government to reduce the deficit substantially and to apportion the burden of increased taxation as fairly as possible and with the least harm to the recovery of business."

Quoting Senator Joseph T. Robinson as stating that "putting the income surtaxes too high may discourage the investment in productive enterprises," the PITTSBURGH POST-GAZETTE advises: "Obviously considerable additional money will have to be found to meet the deficit, and constructive views should be welcomed from all sides."

THE MEASURE OF A MAN

Is his appreciation of the value of a fact.
Is his ability to discipline his own desires.
Is the esteem he puts on the value of an hour.
Is not the length, but the quality of his years.
Is not the things he owns but the things he can enjoy.
Is often the thing we think least about.
Is his ability to learn the mind of God and then co-operate.

Trying Child Problem Worries Many Parents

By GARRY C. MYERS, PH. D.
Head Division Parental Education, Cleveland College, Western Reserve University.

A mother writes:

"My dear Dr. Myers: I have a boy seven years old who wets his bed every night. Not once, but three or four times. We always take him up before we retire, and allow very little, if any, liquids after 5 o'clock in the evening.

"He is healthy, active and well in every other respect, and doctors who have examined him say that it is just a habit that he himself will have to overcome.

"We have punished, bribed and deprived him of certain pleasures, but nothing seems to make any impression on him. Apparently he does not even care.

"Can you suggest anything further for us to do, for we are at our wits' end.

"Your answer will be anxiously awaited."

Answer: You letter is typical of scores of letters on this subject. You do not need scolding; you need help. You have done the best you could, I am sure. First of all, abandon punishment, and all appearances thereof. No child deliberately wets the bed. He is asleep, or partly asleep, when it happens.

No more is he responsible for it than you and I are responsible for some of the things we dream we are doing or have done. If all of us had been punished there could not be jails enough to imprison us nor electric chairs, nor gallows, nor gas death chambers enough to destroy us. We would do anything to rid ourselves of some dreams we dream. Virtually any child of seven or older who often wets the bed, and who because of it is punished or tortured emotionally, would be willing to do almost anything to get rid of the habit. I can think of no greater tragedy of childhood than that of hundreds of young bed-wetters.

I have some painful memories of my own, though my parents were very considerate. I can even recall how I used to dream I was in the toilet only to awaken and discover shortly that I had wet the bed. Though my mother never complained or suggested that I should feel ashamed, I had dreadful feelings when I saw the extra work I had put her to. How happy I was when my parents worked out a scheme whereby I was called up several times a night until I awakened and cared for myself.

I assume that you have provided the child's bed with a rubber sheet beneath the linen sheet, so that he need not worry when he has an accident. You call him only once. Set an alarm clock and call him up one or two or more times, as will be necessary to help him to sleep dry. Maybe just once more per night will suffice. The lad will be interested in setting the clock himself, but be sure it awakens him the first several times it goes off. Thereafter he can take care of himself. And what a world of difference it all will be to him!

BEWARE THE COUGH OR COLD THAT HANGS ON

Persistent coughs and colds lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for persistent coughs and colds and other forms of throat troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the infected membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of persistent coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, bronchitis and other forms of respiratory diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold, no matter of how long standing, is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. (adv.)

Cast Well Chosen For Benefit Play

Former High School Dramatic Stars To Appear In Relief Benefit

The success of a play depends upon choosing the right actors for each role. And so it was in choosing the cast for "Mrs. Bumpstead-Leigh", the benefit play given by the teachers for the school children's relief fund.

The announcement of Miss Betty Glover as Mrs. Bumptead-Leigh is an assurance in itself that this part will be well taken care of. Then we have Miss Ruth Lewis in the role of Miss Rawson, sister to Peter Rawson, the millionaire, which is portrayed by Jimmie Smith. Both of these have unusual ability as their success in former high school plays has shown.

Dudley Arnold as Anthony Rawson adds his name to the list of the city's dramatic talent. Playing opposite to Anthony is Violet deSalle (Miss Helen Lyle). Miss Lyle's role calls for some very clever acting on her part.

The comedy would not be complete unless there was one unusual character and we have this in Peter Swallow, (J. C. Ward). If you wish to forget your troubles let Peter Swallow, the tombstone salesman, help you do it.

Geoffrey Rawson, the second son of Justin Rawson, but who is upbraided by his father for his uncultured tastes for farming, is ably handled by none other than Joe Pearson. In the end Geoffrey shows his superiority by winning the lovely Violet.

Others taking part are Mildred Updegraff, Mildred Burleson, Geraldine Turk, William Wallace and Walter Culliford.

There is such a unity of characters in this story, and the performers have brought about such a unification, that each individual role is necessary in the unravelling of the plot.

NEW MOVIE COMPANY HAS BEEN ORGANIZED

(International News Service)

CHICAGO, Nov. 30.—Inauguration of a new Motion Picture enterprise was announced here today by Aaron Fox, who was formerly allied with his brother William Fox in the Fox Film Corporation.

The new company, Fox said, will be devoted to the production, distribution and exhibition of motion pictures. It was recently incorporated in Delaware under the name of the Aaron Fox Film Corporation. Fox is here negotiating for a site for a theatre which is to be part of the chain operated by the new company.

The actual curvature of the surface of the earth for the first mile is about nine inches, and increases at first approximately as the square of the distance.

Some of our factories are working rather briskly, but what the people of the city are yearning for is a good, old-fashioned smoke nuisance. —Toledo Blade.

Christmas Seals On Sale In Every Part Of County

Mrs. W. A. Pond, Chairman And Her Committee, Are Very Active In Sale

There is not a section of Lawrence County, due to the efforts of Mrs. W. Pond, chairman of the Christmas Seal Committee of the Lawrence County Tuberculosis Society and the members of her committee, in which the effort is not in full swing to sell as many of the seals as possible this year. In fact the principal effort is to increase the sale of seals, due to the increased need for funds with which to fight the causes of the dread disease, which although apparently under control, is still one of the principal causes of deaths occurring each year.

Several thousand packages have been sent out to the many homes of the county, in which there are one hundred seals. While it means that the person receiving them must give up but the small sum of $1 in which to help along this most worthy cause, it means actually that the one dollar given by each individual when combined with the dollars of other individuals, will be the means of saving thousands of lives throughout the state of which this city and county are a part.

Then if there is not other things about the seals to interest the average person there is the fact that they are seasonable and exceedingly useful in adding to the attractiveness of the average persons Christmas gifts.

GRAB BAG

Who designed the Vatican gardens?

When was the lightning rod first used?

Which is harder to blow, a saxophone or a trumpet?

Correctly Speaking—

"Want" should not be limited by a clause. Say "I want you to be happy," and not "I want you should be happy."

Today's Anniversary.

On this day, in 1835, Samuel Langhorne Clemens ("Mark Twain"), an American humorist, was born.

Today's Horoscope.

Persons born on this day learn readily and are fond of commendation.

Answers to Foregoing Questions.

1. The great Italian painter Raphael designed them.
2. The first lightning rod in the world was set up by Benjamin Franklin, in Sepetmber, 1752.
3. A trumpet is harder to blow. A saxophone, however, is harder to handle in fingering.

New Track Detector Car Gets Attention

Spectators gazed wonderingly—and you would have, too—when a trolleyless street-car-like apparatus passed over the Pennsylvania lines here at a walking pace this morning about 9 o'clock. Seldom do they appear on rights-of-way where crack passenger trains run, so the attention wasn't unexpected.

At the Pennsy's Grant street crossing the halted automobiles seemed to welcome the delay as the gates went down for the mysterious car to pass—they got a better chance to view it.

But to explain it, the gas-electric propelled coach was the American Railway association's rail defect detector car making an inspection of the E. & A. division's rails.

Comes From Niles.

Brought here from Niles, O., another part of the Erie & Ashtabula division, the car, carrying two Chicago experts and a capable corps of aides, was dispatched over the right-of-way leading north from here to Girard junction, where the Pennsy line joins the New York Central. Officials say the inspection on this particular section may require four days.

The car proceeds at the rate of five miles an hour, no faster, and it is upon this factor that officials base their traveling estimates. It is about 85 miles north to Girard junction from New Castle.

What role the detector coach plays in the railroad world can readily be seen when it becomes known that the marvelously-arranged instruments of the delicate recording apparatus on the car peer into steel rails as an X-ray does into a body. The weak spots are found, then immediately the defective track is replaced.

A reporter of The News, riding the car today, got a first-hand glimpse of its actual operation. One bad rail was spotted while he was aboard—a horizontal fissure that might not have been observed by track inspectors.

Locals Ride Car.

Division Engineer J. S. Gillum was aboard as were other maintenance-of-way department assistants.

J. S. Wilson, Philadelphia, a Pennsylvania railroad man, and H. W. Keebel, Chicago, operator of the American Railway association headquarters, and O. E. Grove, Pennsy man from Olean, N. Y., were in charge of operations. Division officials accompanied to determine where track changes were necessary.

Once a weak spot was recorded, the car stopped, and only a few minutes passed before rail workers had the defective track replaced.

Keeps Her Word

A grin of triumph wreathes the pretty face of Miss Mamie Johnson of Wichita, Kas. Last spring she assured her chum, Miss Josephine Bell, that she would attend her wedding "if she had to go in an ambulance and look on from a stretcher." And that's just what she did! With her fractured hip in a cast, the result of a fall from a horse last summer, Miss Johnson called an ambulance and observed the ceremony from a stretcher.

Farm Board Probe Battle Imminent

Senate Inquiry Into Farm Board Activities Now Looming

By WILLIAM K. HUTCHINSON
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Nov. 30.—The hope of the Hoover administration to avoid a congressional battle over the federal farm board was dimmed today when Republican leaders conceded the probability of a searching senate inquiry into all phases of the government's farm relief activities.

The effort of administration leaders to anticipate such an inquiry by holding public hearings before the senate agricultural committee for a week has been unsuccessful. The hearings, instead of side-tracking an investigation, rather insured it.

The fact that farm board officials admitted losing $225,000,000 of the government's revolving farm relief fund, only served to redouble the demand for a thorough investigation of their expenditures and financial operations. Senate leaders also were incensed over the salaries paid officials of the board's subsidiary organizations, the tremendous brokerage charges paid to the wheat and cotton subsidiaries and at some of the rather extraordinary deals reported between the stabilization corporations and their subsidiaries.

Tremendous protests from independent merchants and commission exchanges against federal loans to cooperatives also accentuated the demand for an investigation. The independent merchants charged they were being "driven to the wall" by the government's financial discrimination in favor of cooperatives. This protest rallied representatives of the industrial east behind the demand for a thorough inquiry.

School will be conducted steadily now until Tuesday evening, December 22, when the Christmas vacation will start.

RUSH ON FOR GUN PERMITS

Quite A Few Hunters Have Been Seeking Permit For Sidearms

There is quite a rush on the part of hunters to obtain permits to carry firearms, it was stated this morning by Chief of Police C. C. Horner, who with Sheriff Frank Johnston, has the authority to issue permits to carry revolvers or sidearms. Many of the hunters feel it necessary to have these sidearms in their possession when hunting and the result is that a large percentage of the hunters are taking out the permit, to which they are entitled, once they have secured a hunters license. Chief C. C. Horner and Sergeant James P. Steiner were being kept busy all morning issuing permits.

Council Discusses Street Lighting

Seeks Reduction In Rates For Lighting Of City Streets

Considerable discussion was occasioned in city council this morning, when Councilman Clayton H. Reeves, suggested that the city of New Castle request the Penna. Power Electric company to extend the same rates to New Castle that are in effect in Youngstown.

The matter was discussed at length by all of the members present, together with City Solicitor R. M. White.

Councilman Reeves is of the opinion that owing to present conditions, cost of labor and materials being lower than ever before, that the Penna.-Power company reduce the rates here.

A saving of about $2,800 per year would result from a $10.00 decrease, this effecting the 119 lights on the downtown streets, it was asserted.

Reeves was of the opinion that should the Penna-Power company refuse to reduce the rates that the street light in the city be reduced from 1000 candle power to 600, and from 250 to 100.

City Solicitor White was of the opinion that New Castle should hire an expert electrician to make a survey of the lights.

Reeves pointed out that the new contracts drawn up in Youngstown have carried reductions. Reeves also informed council that the Penna. Power company in Pennsylvania is owned by the Commonwealth and Southern, and that the same company owns the Ohio Edison company at Youngstown.

White is in negotiation with Penna-Power officials relative to the matter and will have a report ready in the very near future.

Should New Castle not get a rate reduction, it will mean a return to the same candle power lights that were in use a year and a half ago. It was also suggested that the lights on the Soldier's Memorial on the Public Square be reduced.

Council as a whole agreed that New Castle is paying high rates for electric lights. New Castle is one of the best lighted towns in the state.

Chinese Troops Moving Forward Along Railroad

Chinese Troops Advance Along Peiping-Mukden Railway, As Japs Withdraw

BANDITS ACTIVE ON KOREAN BORDER

By EDWARD HUNTER
International News Service Staff Correspondent
(Copyright, 1931, International News Service)

MUKDEN, Nov. 30. — Chinese troops are "edging up" the Peiping-Mukden railway, occuping positions vacated by withdrawal of Japanese forces, Japanese military headquarters here announced today.

A communique said that aerial observations revealed Chinese troops increasing in number east of Chinchow, and that seven trains ran from Chinchow to Tahushan on Sunday. Some of these were believed to have carried troops.

The Chinese lines, according to information here, approach Paichipu, 51 miles from Mukden, where 200 soldiers are stationed, while other forces are at Tahushan, with infantry scattered over the countryside.

Continue Evacuation

Despite these Chinese troop movements, the Japanese army which was recalled from its advance on Chinchow, continued its evacuation today.

The troop movements were delayed at some points by breaks in the Peiping-Mukden railway above Tahushan, Repairs were being made, however, and it was expected that passenger service would be resumed tomorrow as the remainin Japanese troops are withdrawn.

At Antung a Japanese detachment was engaged in a skirmish with Chinese irregulars, but the latter were quickly dispersed.

37,600 Chinese

As an Armistice loomed in South Manchuria, the Japanese military commanders here received reports on bandit operations along the Korean border, and it was indicated that action might have to be taken in that are to restore order.

Military headquarters estimated that 37,600 Chinese troops are now operating in Manchuria. These were listed as follows:

South Manchuria railway zone, 19,000 irregulars.

Fengtien Province, 5,000 volunteers and 500 bandits.

Chinchow, one brigade with 3000 additional troops east of the city.

North of Tsitsihar, 2600 men with 40 machine guns under General Ma Chan-Shan.

Erie Man Dies As Store Burns

Loss Of $75,000 Is Occasioned By Blaze At Lake City

(International News Service)

ERIE, Pa., Nov. 30.—Trapped by smoke and flames in his living quarters at the rear of his drug store here, Clyde Fletcher, 45, died in a fire which razed the drug store and two adjoining buildings here today with loss estimated at $75,000.

Fletcher was found, apparently suffocated to death, in the rear of the building when firemen, who made futile attempts to rescue him, conquered the blaze after a five hour battle.

Mrs. George Fletcher 45, a sister-in-law of the druggist, was severely burned trying to rescue her brother-in-law and three firemen were overcome by smoke and flames. Mrs. Fletcher was hurried to a hospital where doctors said she will recover. The firemen were given first aid treatment and sent to their homes.

Origin of the blaze, which broke out in the pharmacy, was not immediately determined.

Fire department officials, who began an investigation as soon as the blaze was brought under control, said the fire was given impetus by an explosion of chemicals in the drug store.

The building which housed the store, a two-story structure, was virtually destroyed as were the adjoining Faulhaber Furniture company rooms and the Shadel confectionary.

Progressives At Conference Today On Speakership

Republican Progressives In House Abandon Threatened Boycott Of Conference

By WILLIAM S. NEAL
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Nov. 30.—Republican progressive leaders in the House abandoned their threatened boycott of the party conference today.

The most active members of the insurgent group entered the conference in which Rep. Bertrand H. Snell, of New York and John Q. Tilson, of Connecticut are waging battle for the Republican nomination for speaker.

The entrance of these insurgents into the party conclave was caused, it was explained, by the fact that Democrats have won a paper majority in the House, and the progressives probably have lost the balance of power on organization.

Course Undecided

They were undecided it was indicated, what course to pursue in the speakership fight. Some of them hoped to back a "dark horse" candidate, and eliminate the chances of both Snell and Tilson.

The progressives also planned to make a fight for liberalization of the so-called "gag" rule.

Among the insurgents attending the conference were Rep. Laguardia, of New York, Lambertson of Kansas, Christgau of Minnesota, Sinclair of North Dakota, Nelson and Schneider of Wisconsin.

Because the Republicans meeting has designated a "conference" instead of a "caucus," none of the members will be bound by the conference choice for speaker.

Speakership Fight Close

Both the Snell and Tilson forces claimed victory as the conference started, but admitted the result would be close.

Even though the speakership nomination may be an empty honor, a stiff fight is being made for it because it is expected to carry the title of minority leader.

Only 189 out of the 214 Republican members answered the opening roll call of the conference but several more were expected to appear during the day.

Wings Clipped For Two Days By Bad Weather, Lindbergh Leaves Florida

(International News Service)

FLAGLER BEACH, La., Nov. 30.—His wings clipped for two days by the weather jinx, Charles A. Lindbergh soared back into the skies and headed for New York at 9:45 o'clock today.

The weatherman gave him a clear ceiling to Savannah as the dense blanket of fog and smoke that has cloaked the south Atlantic seaboard for days lifted for the first time this morning.

Col. Lindbergh arrived at the emergency landing field where he was forced by the fog to land Saturday morning while enroute from Miami to New York, at 8:30 o'clock. The weather was lifting and he immediately ordered his plane warmed up for the flight to New York.

He took off 15 minutes later, a huge crowd that had motored to this tiny village to see the famous aviator, cheering as he lifted his borrowed army plane into the air.

Pennsy Dividend Checks Mailed

(International News Service)

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 30.—Definite and prompt practical co-operation is required of the federal and state governments in the present railroad situation to protect the credit of the railroad and enable them to obtain new capital for improvements at reasonable costs, stockholders of the Pennsylvania railroad were informed in a statement by General W. W. Atterbury, which accompanied dividend checks sent to shareholders today.

Dividend checks for the autumn quarter were mailed to the company's 242,459 stockholders, the present one per cent dividend, together with previous payments this year, making a total of 6½ per cent paid in 1931, although earnings, General Atterbury declared, have been "insufficient to pay these dividends, and the greater portion must be charged against the surplus account".

News Of The World As Told In Pictures

From "Unofficial" War Front

These latest pictures from Manchuria show that, despite the suave assurances of diplomats, war is being waged relentlessly. Photos, made on the Tahsing front, where fighting has been fast and furious, show (top) a group of Japanee soldiers planting the standard of the Rising Sun on a hill-top they have just captured. Smoke from the shell-scarred ground can be seen swirling around the Manchurian invaders. Lower left shows a Nipponese soldier making a cautious survey of the battle-ground. Lower right proves that the "unofficial" war isn't only in fun. A group of Jap warriors is shown ministering to one of their comrades who has been wounded.

SHOES ARE IMPORTANT IN SMART COSTUMING, SO

The smartest gown won't atone for sloppy shoes, or redeem the ensemble spoiled by unsuitable footwear. So it's well to look carefully at the latest offerings from the bottier if you'd be considered the "best dressed woman." A lovely green velvet dinner gown worn by Bettina Hall, who is a featured stage player—in case you didn't know—is trimmed with real lace, 1; Harriette Lake, another stage beauty, shows the pretty slippers she wears with her yellow chiffon pajamas trimmed

The Fruits of War

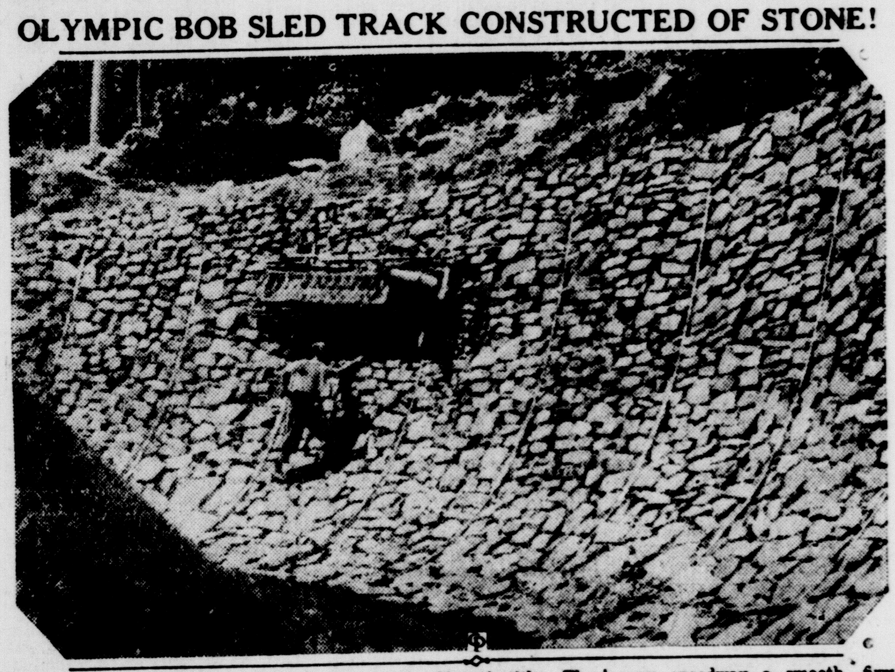

A wounded Japanese soldier being borne from the field of battle by some of his comrades following hostilities in the embattled area around Tahsing, Manchuria, which was captured by the Nipponese. Note the trench in the foreground. While the League of Nations Council continues its efforts toward peace, heavy fighting between Chinese and Japs is collecting the usual gory fruits of war.

King and Il Duce Celebrate Royal Day

The royal ruler of Italy and the real governing power of the nation solemnly walked their beautiful mounts past several miles of Italian troops on dress inspection when the birthday of King Victor Emmanuel III was celebrated in Rome with a huge military display. The King (extreme right) and Premier Mussolini (center) are shown reviewing a line of small tanks drawn up in honor of the sovereign's sixty-second birthday. The ceremony was one of the most colorful held in Italy since pre-war days.

OLYMPIC BOB SLED TRACK CONSTRUCTED OF STONE!

But, of course, the surface will be packed with snow and ice when the star bob teams of the world battle for the Olympic title. The track, laid at Lake Placid, N. Y., has a foundation stone to give the snow speedway a smooth, firm anchorage. The run is built on a slope of Mount Hoevenberg.

WILL WED ANYONE WHO HAS $10,000

"Any respectable white man, regardless of age," provided he has $10,000 to keep her destitute parents, may marry Miss Mary H. Clowes, 21, of Monongahela, Pa., above. She has worked in a restaurant as a waitress to help support her parents, who are ill, but now Miss Clowes is unemployed. That's why she is offering to wed any respectable gentleman who has the necessary sum.

New U. S. Supreme Court Building-to-Be

The beautiful new home of the United States Supreme Court, on which work will begin shortly, as it looks in an architect's drawing to Cass Gilbert, the architect of the structure, which will cost $8,330,000. The building is part of a plan which, when carried out in its entirety, will make the national capital the most beautiful city in the world. The exterior of the Supreme Court building will be of Vermont marble, the facing of the open court in the rear will be of Georgia marble. Interior of the structure, with the exception of the court itself, is to be of Alabama marble. The court will be done with the use of foreign stone.

Look Before You Laugh! Guffaw Gives You Away

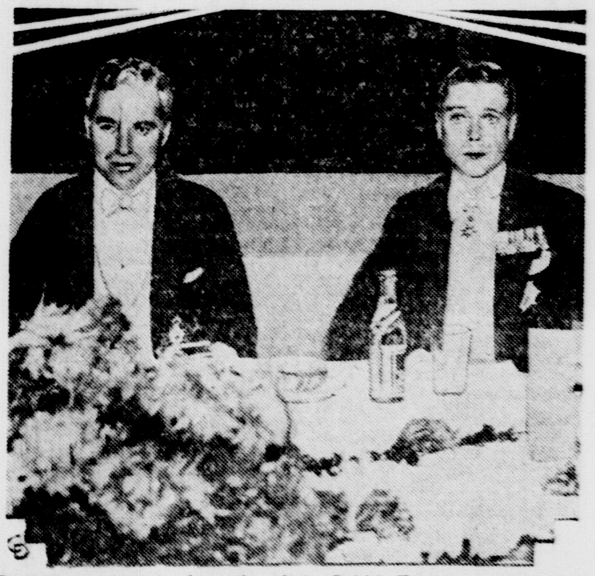

* * * * * *

Columbia University Psychologist Declares Mode of Expressing Hilarity Is Sure Index to Character.

That your laugh indicates the type of humor you possess and is an outward sign of your true character, is the startling result of an experiment conducted by Dr. Polyxenie Kambouropoulou, psychologist at Columbia University, New York. The doctor arrived at her conclusions after an intensive study of one hundred students at Vassar College, each of whom kept a "humor diary" for the purpose of the experiment. The doctor declares that persons who express mirth with a "Hee-hee!" are merely indulging in the "hiss and sneer of a trickishly-gained victory." Those who laugh "Ho-ho!" says the doc, are actually scoffing in self-exaltation—like a rooster does the crowing, one presumes, after the hen has done the work. The only expression of glee which meets with the approval of Dr. Kambouropoulou is the old "Ha-ha!"—although that lends itself to more than one interpretation, such as "giving the boss the Ha-ha." However, as the test was made with the "gentle" sex as the subject, the not-so-gentle element can reasonably indulge in a good "Hee-hee! Ho-ho! or Ha-ha!" and still have a little hope of salvation.

Favorite Sons of Britain

Probably nowhere in the realm of the British Empire are there two such popular men, or "favorite sons," as the Prince of Wales and Charles Chaplin, shown attending a dinner party staged in connection with the ice carnival held in London for charity. The famous comedian is apparently fully enjoying himself, but the heir to the British throne looks as if it was "just another of those things."

Police Drive Reds From White House

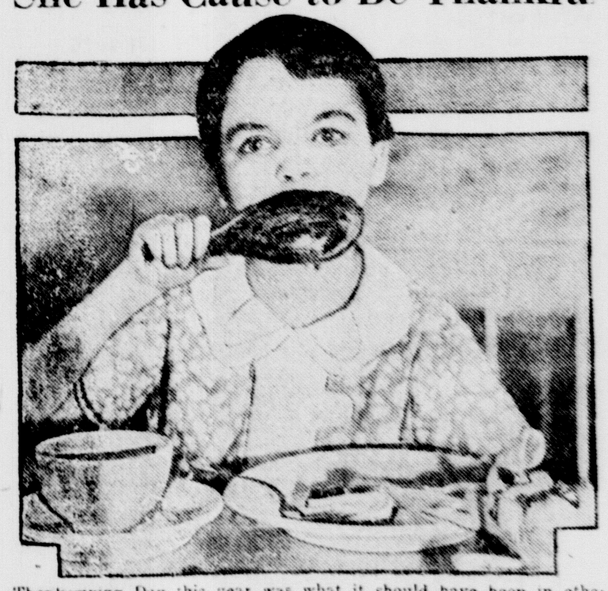

Police of Washington, D. C., are shown dispersing the crowd of unemployed Communists which marched in a body to the White House in a futile attempt to see President Hoover and have him bring their plight to the attention of Congress. Some of the parading Reds, with signs calling out their predicament and demands, are shown in lower left. Several women were among the agitators.

Huge Pay Bared

E. F. Creekmore, head of the cotton stabilization corporation of the Federal Farm Board, whose huge salary of $75,000 a year was bared when the Senate committee on agriculture, headed by Senator Charles McNary, investigated activities of the farm relief organization. It was shown Creekmore received as much as the President of the U. S. is paid as an annual salary.

She Has Cause to Be Thankful

Thanksgiving Day this year was what it should have been in other years to little Edith Riley, 13-year-old Washington, D. C., girl who was brutally imprisoned in a dark closet for long periods during the past four years by her father and stepmother. Previously restrained from the normal joys of childhood, Edith this year fully enjoyed a leg of turkey served to her at the Gallinger Hospital, Washington, where she is recuperating from her terrible mistreatment.

State College Teacher Gives Finepoints For After Dinner Speakers

(International News Service)

STATE COLLEGE, Pa., Nov. 30.—To have nothing in the pockets that attracts attention is one of the fine points of conducting a public meeting efficiently, according to John Henry Frizzell, head of public speech at the Pennsylvania State College.

"A chairman can do his best work standing up," Prof. Frizzell observed, and to this end he should 'learn to sit at ease, rise gracefully,' and avoid evidences of nervousness." He suggested that taking a few deep breaths before opening a meeting would help.

Hint To Toastmasters

In a hint to toastmasters, professor Frizzell advised "do not try things you can't do—some of us just can't be funny."

Other suggestions for presiding officers detailed the duties of the chairman as keeping order, applying the rules, never taking part in a discussion from the chair, knowledge of parliamentary law, and a suggestion not to be more strict than is necessary and to let the will of the assembly be supreme if parliamentary law is to be set aside.

"Don't be annoyed if people are slow in coming to order," Professor Frizzell said, "and be sure every one can hear your opening words.

"To be a good chairman," he continued, "requires work."

MASONTOWN, Pa., Nov. 30.—An attempt to save his hat, which blew off as he rode on the running board of Carl Weaver's car last night cost Dorsey Stahlnecker, 23, of Palmer, his life. He died 15 minutes after being admitted to the Uniontown hospital. His skull was crushed by the fall.

Carl Weaver, 17, of Masontown, driver of the machine, which bore no license plates, is being held to await action by a coroner's jury.

Kills Woman And Commits Suicide, Love Was Spurned

Julius Bertie, Coal Valley, Pa., Near Pittsburgh, Causes Tragic Scene

CHILDREN TELL OF MAN'S ATTACK

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, Nov. 30.—Infuriated because she refused to pursue a love affair, according to county detectives' reconstruction of the tragedy today, Julius Bertie, 38, of Coal Valley, shot and killed Mrs. Bertha Paxon, 34-year old mother of five children, in her Dravosburg home yesterday, then committed suicide.

Bertie died in McKeesport hospital nine hours after the slaying. From acquaintances of the two and from the frightened testimony of three of Mrs. Paxon's children, authorities today were piecing together the evidence concerning the tragedy.

Attacks Woman

Bertie, they said, went to the Paxon home a short time after Mrs. Paxon's husband, Dewey, 35, went to work on a river steamboat. Forcing his way into the home, Bertie followed Mrs. Paxon to the parlor, where a quarrel ensued. In a rage, Bertie drew a gun and fired twice at the woman, one bullet piercing her head, the other lodging in her breast. Then, drawing another gun, Bertie fired a bullet into his own brain.

The three children present, Dewey, Jr., 12, Wayne, 6, and George 9, fled at the sound of the shooting. Terrified, they notified neighbors who summoned police.

Officers entering the house found the bodies and sent the mortally wounded Bertie to the hospital, where he succumbed after telling police he had become infuriated with Mrs. Paxon because she spurned his love.

OLD WILL BRINGS GARDEN PRIZES

Twenty-five years ago General Roeliff Brinkeroff, one of Ohio's leading statesmen and writers, made a will which, becoming effective this year, has awarded two Mansfield, O., boys cash prizes for having the most unique gardens in the city. Paul Dune, left, won the first prize of $25 for the best garden, and John Hammer, right, was awarded $15 for the second best garden.

"Back To The Farm" Is Unemployment Solution

GREENVILLE, S. C., Nov. 30—Secretary of Labor Doak has made demonstration through the Red Cross here, that proved beyond all question the possibilities of going back to the farm. In this city the Red Cross was over-burdened. Secretary Doak insisted that something should be done to effectively remedy the situation. After much insistence he was able to secure five thousand dollars. With this small amount and with the aid of the Red Cross forty-two families were taken from the bread line and moved out to neglected farms overgrown with weeds. They were furnished with seeds and garden implements; each family was given a mule, and within a short time thereafter they began to support themselves.

During the boom period labor was scarce in all of our large cities, high wages were paid, and the surplus labor from the country flocked to the cities. When the depression appeared they were discharged—millions of them. There were no orders to fill, and workers were not required.

This surplus labor must go back to the country. There is no other alternative. And no matter what methods may be adopted to artificially create jobs, they will not be permanent.

But when a family moves to the country, to a plot of land on which they can raise vegetables, corn, and practically everything they need to eat, they become self-supporting very quickly thereafter.

There are farms—thousands of them—idle, overgrown with weeds, run down, deserted. There are millions of acres of fertile land in various parts of the country. The money that we are doling out for charity should be used to send those who cannot find jobs to the land, where they can earn their own living.

Rate High Schools At State College By Student Work

Admission Will Be Graded According To Work By Former Students

STATE COLLEGE, Pa., Nov. 30.—Admission to the Pennsylvania State College next year will be adjusted to accord with the academic records at Penn State by former students from the high schools by their graduates Registrar William S. Hoffman informed principals of Pennsylvania high school today.

The scholastic ratings made for the high schools by their graduates in Penn State, on which the adjustments will be made, were given to the principals at the same time. The information was sent to each of the 500 and more secondary schools of the State which sent students to the college in 1930.

By a direct comparison of these ratings, which are expressed in an index number, the principal of any high school may compare the scholastic standing of his school with that of any other secondary school at a glance. The high school principals asked for the information when they learned of the study at the second annual Guidance and Personnel Conference of Secondary Schools and Colleges held at the college last month.

Under the new admission regulations, the registrar informed the principals, students who are graduated in the lower three-fifths of their high school classes will be admitted on recommendation of their principals, provided former students from these sections of the class placed in the first four-tenths of the freshman class at Penn State. Others will be required to take a college aptitude test.

Thousands Inspect New Buick Models

"The public is the court of last resort in deciding the merits of a better product, and the public's verdict in the last analysis is always right," says officials of the Lawrence Automobile Company. "Buick for 1932 has gone before the American people and their verdict is one of enthusiastic approval. In fact, the new Buick, with its marvelous Wizard Control and many other outstanding advancements, has been received with greater acclaim than has any other car in Buick history.

"The present unparalleled reception is the best possible evidence of Buick leadership. Here in our community the Lawrence Automobile Co. has never witnessed such tremendous interest in a product at announcement time, the public turning out in unlooked-for numbers to see the new Buicks. Over 3000 people visited the salesrooms during the first week. Judging from the orders already received, the prospects for future business are very encouraging.

"It was truly the greatest demonstration of enthusiasm ever manifested for a motor car. It is an indication, also, that the worst of the depression is probably over. That Buick is able to contribute its share toward giving momentum to the upward movement is very gratifying."

Hunting Negro For Shooting Of Two Mill Guards

Republic Steel Corporation Police Wounded By Negro At Youngstown

(International News Service)

YOUNGSTOWN, O., Nov. 30.—Police today were seeking Jim Watson, said to be a Chicago negro, who shot and wounded Lieut. Robert Jardine, 55, and Patrolman H. C. Esker, 43, of the Republic Steel Corporation police force here, when they attempted to arrest him for trespassing on company property.

According to the officers, they encountered Watson and Clayton Jackson near the steel plant and placed both men under arrest. As they led them to the office, Watson jerked away from Esker's grasp, drew a gun and fired. Esker fell, a bullet in his abdomen and Jarding received a flesh wound.

Jackson, who made no attempt to flee, said he met Watson after alighting from a freight train here, told police they were on their way to Pittsburgh and were looking for a "freight to ride" when the officers found them.

Senator Reed Urges Congress Adopt Economy

Rigid Economy And Higher Surtaxes On Incomes Best Ways Of Meeting Deficit

URGES NO LOANS FOR RAILROADS

(International News Service)

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 30.—Rigid economy by the incoming congress and higher surtaxes on incomes, are among the best ways for meeting the huge deficit in governmental expenses, in the opinion of U. S. Senator David A. Reed of Pittsburgh. He outlined his program before a large and enthusiastic audience of Philadelphia business leaders at the Union League Club here recently.

Strict economy and retrenchment and no "reckless" legislation to the detriment of the country's business are demanded of the next congress he said. But in order to meet the debts already piled up surtaxes as high as 40 per cent on incomes, and in immediate stop of payments of compensation to war veterans, who are able-bodied and employed, must be effected, Reed asserted.

Must Deny Loans

The Pennsylvania senator also said a firm "no" must be given to representatives of American railways who are seeking governmental loans to aid railways in "distress." Likewise a similar denial must be made to proposals for unemployment insurance.

In describing his plan of increasing surtaxes, Senator Reed declared that only one-half of one per cent of the people pay income taxes. To increase the revenue from this source he advocated that taking of steps to broaden the base of this form of taxation. He also suggested an excise tax on sales of certain commodities which are luxuries.

Continue Battle On Contamination Of State Streams

HARRISBURG, Nov. 30.—The work of abating the contamination of Pennsylvania streams moves on apace. While no sensational steps have been taken, the steady influence of a definite co-operative program is being felt.

Two new sewage treatment plants were put into operation during October, announced the Department of Health, today. The outcome of many years of effort—the plant at Erie is a rather notable achievement. It is designed to care for a city of 125,000 population, and to reduce the pollution of Lake Erie.

At Eddystone, Chester county, the first unit of a comprehensive project for the treatment of sewage in 34 municipalities, was put into operation with a suitable dedication by Chief Engineer Stevenson, of the Department of Health of Pennsylvania.

Good Surgeons Rejoice At Fewer Operations, Declares Dr. Clendening

Surgical Practitioners Attain Dexterity But Science Said To Be In State Of "Suspended Animation"

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

All I know about the clinical congress of the American College of Surgeons, held in New York recently, is what I read in the papers. I was invited to be present, as a journalist, and was told that every opportunity for publicity and interviews with prominent surgeons would be put at my disposal, but I was unable to attend.

The conspicuous feature of the meeting, to judge from accounts, was the absence of any indication of the scientific advancement of surgery. The discussions were concerning publicity, and teaching the public about cancer, and social medicine and ghosts and magazines that print criticisms of surgeons, but there seemed to be no indication that anybody had done any real work or made any real discoveries.

There was a tirade against Spiritualism, and sneers at Sir Oliver Lodge, and Sir William Crookes, who dabble in the occult, but it sounded a great deal like tackling a dummy or shooting a cigar store Indian. Dr. George W. Crile appears to have made his speech on the adrenals again; he might well be advised by his friends not to do that any more. I heard him speak in a medical meeting about a year ago; after about an hour of it, a very thoughtful looking doctor who was sitting next to me, turned and said: "Have you the slightest idea what in heaven he is trying to get at?" And this relieved me because I had been trying to figure out the same thing and thinking it was my own stupidity which prevented me.

The fact is, of course, that surgery today is in a sort of position of suspended animation. No real advance in its methods has been made for well over twenty years. Its great stimulus was given to it by Lister and the development of the aseptic method. This, combined with the already developed science of anaesthesia, created a great field of work. But it has now been pretty thoroughly explored.

Through the work of many men surgery attained to a technical perfection that put it for a time as the leading department of medical practice. It still enjoys all the benefits of that great period of inspiration. Average surgeons today have attained to a dexterity that the greatest pioneers of the art could not have learned. But the glory has departed. Fifteen years ago surgeons were the great heroes of medicine; every student in a medical class wanted to be a surgeon. Today hardly a fair percentage give it a thought.

As a matter of fact, surgery is losing ground. Internal medicine has made so many discoveries that they have rendered large parts of a surgical treatise of fifteen years ago ludicrously antiquated. The X-ray especially is taking over accomplishments that formerly were exclusively surgical. Diathermy and other electrical methods are doing the same thing. It is a hopeful sign. It means fewer surgical operations. In this all truly good surgeons rejoice.

QUESTIONS FROM READERS

J. R. B.: "Will you please tell what are the commonest causes of eruption on the scalp, and on the chin, and on the back, and under the arm-pits, and on the feet?"

Answer: The commonest eruptions on the skin of the scalp are ringworm and favus. The latter makes a particularly ugly encrusted sore, and causes the patient great discouragement, if treatment with home remedies is tried. With X-ray treatments the sores disappear rapidly.

The commonest eruption on the chin is impetigo—a pus infection. Barber's itch is also frequent in this location.

On the back the commonest eruption is acne (pimples, in plain language).

Perhaps the commonest eruption in the armpits is ringworm (or Phobie itch).

By all odds, the commonest eruption on the feet is ringworm (nicknamed athlete's foot).

Urge Motorists To Avoid Deer Areas

Would Have Motorists Refrain From Using Routes 350, 322 And 50 In Deer Country

(International News Service)

PHILIPSBURG, Pa. Nov. 30—Motorists driving through the Allegheny mountains today were requested by the State Highway Patrol substation here to refrain from use of state highway routes 350, 322 and 50.

The request was issued, patrolmen said, because of the thousands of deer hunters who will go into the hunting country in this region tomorrow for opening of the shooting season and because many deer crossing are located on the three routes—350, from Philipsburg to Harrisburg via Port Matilda; 52 from Philipsburg to Harrisburg via Snowshoe and 322, the Philipsburg-Bald Eagle cutoff. It is feared hunting accidents will mount if the usual flow of traffic over the roads continue during the opening of the hunting season.

Highway patrolmen urged motorists to follow Route 53 from Philipsburg to Sandy Ridge, via Osceola, in trans-state trips.

Dewberry School To Be Erected On Site Of Old On

Contract Will Be Let As Soo As Approval Of Department Is Received

County Superintendent John C. Syling has sent a list of the bids for the new Dewberry school in Mahoning township to the state department. As soon as the department checks over the bids it is expected that authority for letting the contract will be received.

The lowest bidder for the work was F. C. Thompson of this city, whose bid was $1,250. Supt. Syling has asked the department to notify him by wire in order that no time may be lost in getting at the work.

It has been decided to erect the school house on the site of the old one. There was some talk of a new site after the old building was burned by an incendiary, but after looking over the ground the school directors decided to use the old site. There has been a school house on this site for over 100 years.

Meanwhile pupils who attended the Dewberry school will be without school advantages until the new building is erected. It was found that it would be too expensive to secure a bus and transport the pupils to Hillsville, in view of the short time that will elapse while the new building is being constructed. It is probable that the school term will be extended in the spring to make up for lost time.

Court injunctions form the only method by which the doe season can be stopped. Without court action, both male and female deer can be shot in Pennsylvania from December 1 to 15, inclusive.

Unemployed Start Building Dugouts To Serve As Homes

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, Nov. 30.—Lessons of war are being used by a group of central European laborers here to solve the problems of peace!

Out of work and unable to pay rent, a dozen of the laborers have constructed dugouts in a field on the outskirts of the city here.

Using experience gained while serving in the Austrian army during the World War, the men constructed six crude, but clean, homes in the side of a gulley in the field. Built of tin and wood, the huts all lean against the side of the earth bank. Large steel barrels serve as stoves.

Expert Builders

Several of the homes have bunks for six men. Mike Biscon, an Austrian veteran of the World War, explained the construction of the huts.

"The 'new city' started about a year ago. I came here in July because I could not find work. There are no fights here and none of the residents drink. We all go to bed early," said Mike.

"I learned how to make a dugout while serving in the Austrian army," Mike continued.

Pointing to a dugout in the making, Mike exclaimed with a touch of civic pride:

"The city is growing. Meile Workcavich, who lives with a friend in Harrisburg, is building that dugout. He is out of work, too."

LOOKING BACK

IN NEW CASTLE

Among the names that have been long associated with the seventh ward is that of Wallace. John Wallace of Mifflin Township, Allegheny County, Pa., was probably the first person of that name to settle in the Mahoningtown or seventh ward district. He was born in Allegheny County, May 1, 1786 and lived to be more than 90 years of age. He settled in Mahoningtown in 1842. The Wallaces were originally from County Tyrone, Ireland. Mr. Wallace was in the service in the war of 1812, serving as a private in Captain Peter Stilley's company, raised in Allegheny county and his brother-in-law, James Irwin, was first lieutenant of the same company. The company was stationed at Pittsburgh for five months guarding the British Prisoners taken by Commodore Perry in the Battle of Lake Erie. Wallace drew a land warrant for 160 acres for his service and this he sold for $160. He was a carpenter and builder by trade and when he came to Mahoningtown, it consisted of two stores, one blacksmith and wagon shop, a Presbyterian church (at least there were meetings being held by that denomination) and a small cluster of dwellings. He worked at his trade for twelve years and then farmed for 28 years. His wife died January 14, 1874, aged 91 years. The couple lived together for sixty-one years and reared ten children. The first postmaster at Mahoningtown was John Gillespie, who came from Pittsburgh and opened a store about 1841. He built the Lawrence House the next year. Other postmasters of the early days following him were David Bower, Joseph Cox, Seth Blanchard, and Stephen Sherman.

Good Samaritan Act Is Cause Of Chicago Shooting

Youth Attempting To Aid Drunk To Home Is Shot In Abdomen

(International News Service)

CHICAGO, Nov. 30.—In the declining years of a life devoted to the cause of prohibition and public order, Daniel L. Gilday, 65, sat in a cell today harrassed by the accusation of having shot a 17-year-old boy in a frenzy of drunkenness.

Just a few blocks away from the jail on a bed of agony in the Englewood Hospital lay the victim, Herman Knol, a model youth who was trying to be a good samaritan to Gilday when a bullet from the veteran reformer's gun pierced his abdomen.

Physicians accorded the boy small chance in his fight for life.

Befuddled by the confusing swiftness of the tragedy, the elderly dry law crusader and civic leader could say but little regarding the incident. That little was a defense of his act.

"I thought he was trying to hold me up," he said. "In fact, I remember that just before I shot him he asked me for my money."

A different version, however, was given by Herman Alkema, the wounded boy's 18-year-old companion.

Young Alkema told police that he was on his way to church last night together with Herman Knol, Mr. and Mrs. John Knol and four other children of the Knol family when they noticed Gilday staggering along the street.

"He looks like a nice man. Somebody ought to help him get home," young Knol remarked to his father. With that he and the Alkema youth took Gilday by the arms and asked him where he lived. Gilday waved the direction and the two youths guided Gilday up the street, according to Alkema's account. Suddenly the elderly crusader halted, drew a revolver from his pocket and waved it about over his head, young Alkema told the police, continuing:

"Then without saying a word, he pressed the gun to Herman's stomach and pulled the trigger."

The police said Gilday at first was unable to speak, but answered a few questions several hours later. He admitted being drunk, police said, and a half-pint of whiskey was found on his person.

Piles All Gone

Without Salves or Cutting

Itching, bleeding, protruding piles go quickly and don't come back, if you remove the cause. Bad blood circulation in the hemmorrhoidal veins causes piles by making the effected parts weak, flabby, almost dead. Salves and cutting fail because only an internal medicine can actually correct these conditions. Dr. J. S. Leonhardt discovered a real internal Pile remedy. After prescribing it for 1,000 patients with success in 960 cases, he named it HEM-ROID. Eckerd's and New Castle Drug Co. says one bottle of HEM-ROID Tablets must end your Pile misery or money back.

News Writer Wanders Into School Supply Room This Morning

Finds Enormous Quantity Of Necessary Equipment For Students

News was rather scarce this morning at the Administration building on East street, headquarters for New Castle's splendid school system, and, until the reporter wandered down into the supply cellars, there didn't seem to be anything worth a line of type.

But that supply room! It was a sight to make any reporter gasp, even though he be prepared for what was there.

That New Castle's 11,000 school students do not write their arithmetic and penmanship problems on their collars and cuffs, was plainly shown by the supply room contents. There were thousands of tablets, ruled and plain; notebooks of all sizes and quality; reams of typewriter, penmanship, plain and ruled paper: small tablets and large tablets.

Then there was a room full of janitor's supplies—light globes, brushes of all sizes and for all purposes, paper towels, barrels of plaster, tools of all descriptions, soap, cleaners, disinfectants.

And lastly, the art supply rooms—reams of beautiful colored paper used in the art classes at the schools, paints of rainbow hues, shalac, enamels, brushes, crayons, colored chalk, moleding clay, modeling flour, tubes of oil, paints and multi-colored pencils.

Although a most interesting sight now, the secretary in charge of the supplies told the reporter that it is nothing in comparision with the way it appeared a few months ago when the Fall school term was just opening. Supplies were packed to the ceilings and only room for aisles was left. The law requires that aisles be clear because of the fire hazard.

More supplies will be in place next month, in preparation for the second school semester.

RAILROAD MEN AIM FOR HIGH SAFETY GOAL

Pennsy's Cheering Reports Today Spur Employes To Pass Old Records

Reporting what progress the Pennsylvania railroad men of the Erie & Ashtabula division have achieved since January 1, 1931, Safety Agent L. C. Gleason, speaking at this afternoon's conference of the division's safety committee, announced the E. & A's record as the best of any division in the Central region and one of the top placers in the showing for the entire system.

So far this year there have been 10 reportable I. C. C. cases, compared with 20 for the 12-month-period of 1930. I. C. C. cases are where disability continues for three or more days.

Shows Reduction

During 1930 a total of 205 accident cases, major and minor, were reported on the E. & A. For the 11-month period this year, the total stands at 150.

The E. & A's present record shows a percentage of 2.4 injuries per million man hours this year, compared with an average of 4.16 injuries for the Central region. The Renovo division is\ second on the region, with a rate of 2.73 injuries per million man hours.

Leader On System

Only the Atlantic division tops the E. & A. for the accident rate on the entire system. However, several departmental showings of the local division will best those of the Atlantic at the close of the year, or should.

Not a single reportable case was recorded on the E. & A. during November, or up until the meeting this afternoon. Midnight will mark the start of the final month.

Present today to meet with division officials and employes was V. C. Ernest, represetative of the Central region's safety headquarters at Pittsburgh. He spoke.

The meeting today took place in the assembly room at the Pennsy's West Side headquarters.

BOOST DRIVE OF SALVATION ARMY

tions, bringing the local appeal fund total to over $1,300.

At the Cathedral Sunday afternoon, more than a thousand people were present and listened with intent interest to the appeal of the army leaders and the friends of the army in this community, for funds with which to properly finance the Salvation Army here.

In the program of the afternoon were included vocal selections by local groups of singers and selections by the famous band of the Salvation Army from Pittsburgh, which were thoroughly enjoyed.

Parade Is Held

Prior to the meeting at the Cathedral, there was a parade from the Appeal Headquarters in the Y. W. C. A. to the Cathedral. Heading the parade formation was the Veterans of Foreign Wars Drum Corps, Troop F, 103rd Cavalry, Salvation Army Staff Band visiting officers and members of the local corps, Company K, Sons of Veterans Reserve and a group of cars.

The line of march was east on Washington street to East street, East street to North street, North street to North Mill street and up Mill street and Highland avenue to the Cathedral.

After arrival of the parade group at the Cathedral, the meeting got under way, with the band and visiting officers of the Salvation Army, many ministers of the city churches, members of the local advisory board, the Veterans of Foreign Wars Drum Corps, the Men's Bible Class Chorus from the First Congregational, the members of the combined choirs of the Third United Presbyterian and First Baptist churches, the Sons of Veterans Reserve and others on the platform.

Prior to the actual opening of the regular program at the meeting, the Veterans of Foreign Wars Drum Corps rendered a selection.

Meeting Opens

The meeting proper opened with the singing of America by the audience under the direction of John Owens of the First Baptist choir.

Rev. G. M. Landis, pastor of the First Baptist church then led a prayer, in which he asked the guidance and approval of God on the meeting being held. An anthem very effectively rendered by the combined Third U. P. and First Baptist choirs under the leadership of David West followed.

L. B. Round Speaks

At this time, W. E. Hoffman, special representative of the Salvation Army in charge of the appeal here, acting as master of ceremonies, introduced Louis B. Round, vice-chairman of the drive, stating that Dr. W. W. Bissell, the drive chairman, was unable to be present on account of his duties at the hospital.

Mr. Round said "I am for the Salvation Army and for every other organization that does something for humanity and makes New Castle a better place to live in. The Salvation Army has been for many years following the precept of the master to go out and carry the gospel message into the highways and byways. It has thrown out the lifeline time and time again, while the rest of us passed by on the other side.

"It is doing an unselfish service and is broad enough that it can appeal to the Jew, the Catholic and the Protestant. Words are a fine thing, but words fail when there is hunger, thirst and a need of clothing. The Salvation Army says the words but also takes care of the hunger, thirst and the need of clothing.

"The Salvation Army has a place in New Castle and fills a need and I hope that there will be enough money secured to enable to carry on its work effectively in this community."

Other Speakers

A selection by the staff band followed. Rev. W. C. Tyrrell, pastor of the Primitive Methodist church, then read the scripture lesson, reading from the First Epistle of John beginning at the eleventh verse of the third chapter.

The male chorus of the Men's Bible Class of the First Congregational church, then rendered two selections under the leadership of D. O. Davies. The selections rendered were "Onward Christian Soldiers" and "Pass It Along".

Attorney J. Glenn Berry, commander of Perry S. Gaston Post of the American Legion, then spoke in behalf of the Salvation Army saying "The service men are back of the Salvation Army because it performs a service, feeds the starving cares for those who are down and out, binds the wounds of those who are hurt and because it did not fail the service men in 1917-1918. Because it did not fail the service men in their time of need, the service men will not fail it now."

Col. Campbell Speaks

Following a selection by the staff band, Lieutenant Colonel C. B. Campbell, commander of the Western Pennsylvania Division of the Salvation Army, gave the principal address of the afternoon.

"I have no apology to offer for the organization of which I am a member and to which it has been a pleasure to dedicate my life. It has continued on its way, in spite of persecution until today it is one of the leading factors in the uplift work of the world.

"It has brought sunshine into many a darkened life and contributed materially to the uplift of many people.

"It is not an untried or unknown agency but its work and its deeds are known throughout the world. Its activities embrace every known line of uplift work.

"I believe that the people of New Castle will take an interest and enable the Army to make the burden of the unfortunate lighter and enable it to do a work that will merit Heaven's benediction".

Another selection was then rendered by the combined Third United Presbyterian and First Baptist church choirs under the leadership of David West after which motion pictures of the Salvation Army Children's Home at Bellevue were shown and during the showing of which W. E. Hoffman and Rev. Samuel Maitland made a plea for contributions. Several hundred dollars in pledges and cash were received as the ushers went about the large crowd. The meeting was brought to a close with the benediction by Major N. W. Smith.

Evening Meeting

In the early evening, the Staff band, which is composed of officers and members of the Salvation Army who donate this service free of charge, paraded the main street. This was followed by an old fashioned Salvation Army meeting in the Central Presbyterian church with Lieutenant Colonel C. B. Campbell as the preacher. Here a congregation that filled the church greeted the Army and additional pledges and cash were received.

The interesting feature of the Army Staff Band and the music played is the fact that the music was composed by Salvation Army officers and was also printed and published by the Salvation from its own offices and plant.

Meeting Tuesday

A joint meeting of ladies and men interested in putting the work of the Salvation Army over in this city has been arranged for Tuesday evening in the drive headquarters in the Y. W. C. A. At this time a follow up of the start made Sunday will be planned and arranged and a general canvass of the city will follow.

CHILD SLAYER DIES IN CHAIR

chair and the electrodes applied at 7:01 a. m. the lethal current hurtled through his straining form at 7:02 a. m. and he was pronounced dead four minutes later. Only one contact was made.

Starchok made no pre-death statement of guilt or innocence. He maintained to the last the stoicism that had marked his imprisonment in murderer's row since he was brought here from Johnstown where he was tried and found guilty.

His body was claimed by a brother from Johnstown after the execution.

Execution of Harry Starchok in the Pennsylvania death chair today brought to a close a dramatic sequence of events which followed the discovery of the torn and battered body of little Betty Mowry in the attic of Starchok's ramshackle home at Conemaugh, Cambria county, on March 16 last.

A wave of horror, quickly changing to resentment and threats against the 28 year old man, married and the father of a four year old boy, Betty's playmate, swept through Cambria county when Starchok confessed to the assault and murder of the chubby-cheeked little girl.

Betty left her home to play with Starchok's child. She did not return. There was no suspicion of Starchok and search for the girl centered on the Conemaugh river where it was feared she had fallen in and drowned.

Tip Given By Boy

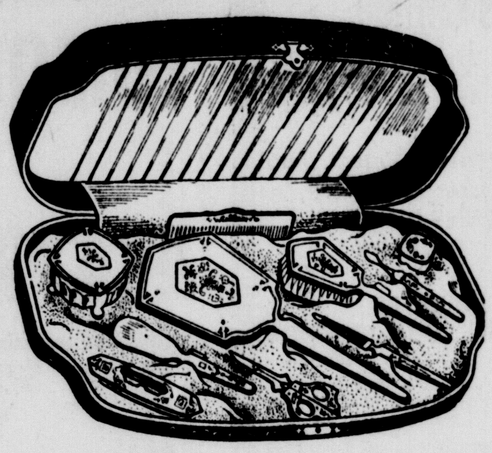

Betty's playmate, Starchok's son, was an interested spectator of the search. Three days after the girl disappeared the boy told of Betty going into his home. And, he said, she didn't come out.

Starchok's home was ransacked, with no results. Finally, a venturesome youth crawled under the floor boards of the attic and found Betty's body. She had been assaulted and then bludgeoned to death with an ax and hatchet.

Questioning of Starchok resulted in a confession that he had committed the crime which he blamed on "dollar-a-pint moonshine." He repudiated the confession at his trial but a jury brought in a guilty verdict within twenty minutes after leaving the courtroom.

Japan's chief trouble seems to be a truck complex on an Austin chassis.

VICE PRESIDENT TO ACCEPT PARTY RE-NOMINATION

Presidency, in the event this is tendered to me.

"Many reasons have been advanced by my friends to support either course I shall pursue. After careful consideration I have decided not to be a candidate for the senate from Kansas in 1932, and further that if the next Republican National Convention nominates me for Vice President I shall accept."

No Snap Decision

It was no snap decision that Curtis made, for he has been pondering over his course for many months. He has made several trips to Kansas and other parts of the West to "size up the situation" and to survey the temper of the electorate at close range.

As set forth in his statement, the Vice President has been subjected to considerable pulling and hauling by his friends. Some of his closest intimates urged him to retire from the Vice Presidency and stand for the senate again. He was, they urged, almost certain of election from Kansas, while there is considerable doubt about the ability of the Hoover ticket to pull through next year.

On the other hand, some of his close friends urged him not to "leave the ship" at this time. They emphasized that if he announced he was not a candidate for renomination as Vice President next year, it would be interpreted in many quarters as indicating his belief that Mr. Hoover could not be re-elected.

Makes Trip Across U. S.

Between the two schools of advice, Curtis has wavered for months. At one time he was on the verge of announcing he would be a senatorial candidate, but was dissuaded.

Several weeks ago he made a trip across the continent to California, and his observations on this journey apparently decided him. He found that rising wheat and grain prices in the farm belt had put the West in a better temper, and that politically things were not looking as badly as they did when wheat was selling at 25 cents a bushel and the farmers were bombarding Washington with cries of distress.

Whether President Hoover had anything to do with the decision is not known. The impression is that he did not, although it is known that some of Mr. Hoover's friends counselled Curtis during his period of indecision not to show his "lack of faith" in the Republican cause next year by abandoning the National ticket.

There were two known aspirants for the post had Curtis decided to decline the nomination. One was Col. Theodore Roosevelt, now Governor of Porto Rico. Another was Secretary of War Patrick J. Hurley of Oklahoma, who has become one of Mr. Hoover's most trusted political lieutenants. Both publicly stated however, that they were "for Charley if he wants it."

BONESETTER REESE TAKEN BY DEATH

ough knowledge of human bone structure. He never submitted bills, allowing his patients to pay whatever they believed his services were worth.

Born in Wales in 1855, Reese came to the United States when he was 22 years old. By that time he had already worked in Steel Mills in England and Wales. It was in his native Wales that he was first initiated into the arts of "bonesetting" and acquired his fundamental knowledge of human anatomy.

He worked in Steel Mills in Pittsburgh and Youngstown for 22 years after his arrival in this country. Then by sheer accident he inaugurated his "bonesetting" practice. When a worker in a Youngstown mill fractured his leg, Reese set the broken bones and the injured man healed from that time on Reese's reputation as a "miracle man" grew and spread until it became international.

Reese encountered stout opposition from medical men for a number of years, but reports of his healings were ever increasing.

The Ohio State Legislature recognized his powers in 1900 when it enacted a special statute designed to protect him from prosecution and according him the right to practice the "bonesetting" art.

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, No. 30— Three more New Castle truckers filed applications with the Public Service commission today for certificates permitting them to haul freight and merchandise on call in New Castle and "for long distance hauling on demand."

The applicants were: E. D. Fee, Harvey T. Brest and P. W. Keely.

Keely, in addition to asking for the New Castle certificate, stipulated three routes out of that city he wishes to travel, one to Oil City, one to Butler and another to the Ohio state line via route No. 422. He was represented by Attorney Jno. G. Lamoree of New Castle.

Attorney Thomas W. Dickey, New Castle, was counsel for the other two applicants.

New Castle Ends 1931 Grid Season

Red And Black Grid Machine Closes Season With Three Wins, Six Losses 1 Tie

JOHN URAM HIGH SCORER; 48 POINTS

Injuries At Start Of Season Blamed For Bad Season Locals Encountered

Coach Phil Bridenbaugh's 1931 high school gridiron machine which ended its season Thanksgiving Day encountered one of the worst seasons any of his teams have enjoyed since he took up the reigns here back in 1922. The New Castle high school eleven this season won but three games, lost six and tied one.

Injuries to several of the most promising boys on the squad is believed to have had a lot to do with the showing the locals made. Then another thing that must be taken into consideration is the fact that the local boys lost several nice contests by some close scores.

The injures of Andy Lasky and Nick Uram, left two berths open in the backfield. These lads were gridders from last year's machine. Lasky did not play in any of the games while Uram saw action in two games at the end of the season. H. Workman, a yoeman sustained an injury to his leg and was out nearly half of the season. Fred Hileman an end met with another serious injury and he was out for sometime.

Joseph Wrona a promising backfield lad played several of the games at the start of the season but he was needed at home and this caused him to drop out of school. Coach Bridenbaugh then discovered Joe Kolodjeski who had the earmarks of a coming gridder. He participated in two games and he was seriously hurt. Last Thursday he played part of the game.

The local mentor was forced to shift his lineup considerably throughout the season. The New Castle Red and Black cohorts started the season by tumbling Coraopolis high 38-0. McKees Rocks next came here with a formidable team and in a close game, New Castle won, 6-0. In the final minute, J. Uram got away for a 50-yard run which trimmed McKees Rocks.

Charleroi's big team next handed the locals their first setback of the season 14-6. Coach Hank Day's Washingtonians with as clever a team as has been seen here in a number of years handed New Castle its worst defeat in a number of years. The Little Presidents won 27-0. One year the local team ran away with Washington, 39-6.

The fifth contest found a revised team representing the local institution. The team that played the fifth game was invincible that evening and romped off the field with a 38-0 victory at the expense of Woodward high of Toledo. Again New Castle hit a losing streak, next taking it on the chin at the hands of Altoona, 13-6. Turtle Creek won a thrilling 6-0 verdict next.

McKeesport high the eighth opponent also returned home with the bacon, 7-6. New Castle held Youngstown South to a 0-0 score at Youngstown in the ninth battle. Last Thursday in the finals of the season Erie East's crack team was fortunate to win by a 7-6 score.

Score 106 Points

In ten games New Castle accumulated 106 points to 74 for their opponents. Only four points after touchdown were tallied. Inability to make that extra marker count robbed New Castle out of a deadlock with McKeesport and Erie East. The locals were weak in this department. John Uram, plucky halfback and quarterback led the scorers with 48 points. Rambo was second with 15 points and Kominic took third place with 7 points. Six more gridders trailed with one touchdown apiece.

Some 22 gridders will be lost to Coach Bridenbaugh next season. Already the local mentor has begun work for ne season's team. He has several youngsters from the Junior high schools and the new product from the high school. The only thing to do is to forget the past and think of the future. Basketball will now take the spotlight which was turned away from football last Thanksgiving. Let's hope for a good basketball season.

Fan Selects All Star Grid Eleven

Fan Who Witnessed All Teams In Action Make Selection From Local League

A local football fan who has seen every independent football team in the league in action this morning sent in a selection of a team he believes is the pick of the league.

The all star team which this fan has picked is composed of five Williams players, three DeHart gridders, two Sacred Heart boys and one Croton gridder. Looking over the list one finds that there are 10 former New Castle high gridders on the team. Harris, Babb, Farrow, W. Smith, Richards, McIntosh, Kulick, DiMuccio, L. Rowe and DiThomas have seen action at New Castle high while Yanks Marcella starred as a member of Coach McCombs Ben Franklin eleven.

This fan's selection is as follows:

First Team

Rodgers-Butch Fight Tonight

Rodgers Hopes To Even Count Mith Mose Who Won First Battle

HOMER GRAY TO BOX MICKEY HUZDA

Jackie Rodgers and Mose Butch, rival featherweights of Pittsburgh, are awaiting the bell that will send them off on a fistic journey, scheduled for 10 rounds at the Castle bowl tonight. Mose captured the decision in their initial battle and Rodgers hopes to even the count here.

The first fight was filled with punching, according to accounts. Mose took the first four rounds but Rodgers got going good in the fifth and when the bell rang for the tenth the scrap was even. Butch staged a whirlwind finish and was accorded the round and battle.

This didn't set so well with Rodgers and when Promoter Myers sought an opponent for Butch, Jackie asked that Johnny Datto proposed foe of Butch, he sidetracked and the assignment be given to him and that is how the match happened to be made for the bowl.

Seasoned Battlers

Rodgers has had more experience than Butch. He has fought many of the topnotchers. His battles with Datto had the fans standing on their feet and when Butch beat Datto it raised Mose's standing in Tin Ear colony. Both can punch and prospects look bright for plenty of action when they battle.

They arrived here at noon, immediately went to their hotel, to await the weighing in at three o'clock. After they weigh in they will hie to their hotel and await the bell. They are reported to be in tiptop shape for a gruelling battle.

There will be lots of punching in the semifinal as Billy Brent of Pittsburgh and Jimmy Taylor, of Cleveland, middleweights are listed for action. Brent totes a soporific and Taylor is known here and other places where he has milled as a hard, conscientious plugger.

Starts At 8:45 P. M.

Homer Gray of this city will face a rugged opponent in Micked Huzda of Masury, Ohio. Huzda has been making fistic life unbearable for such boxers as the like of Jack White and as Gray beat White and knocked out Bill Donnelli, the scrap will contain plenty of local interest.

The main bout is listed for 10 chapters and the Huzda-Gray and Brent Taylor battles for six rounds each. The fistic proclivities will be opened with another bout scheduled to go six rounds. Promoter Myers will announce their identities this afternoon.

Myers stated today that should a cold wave break it will make no difference as the heating system is working fine and the bowl is warm. The first scrap will start at 8:45 p. m., and he anticipates a good crowd owing to the prominence of the two main bouters.

Correct this sentence: "Yes, I carry a gun," said the deputy, "but I realize that I have no right to shoot anybody except in self-defense."

Interest Begins To Center On Basketball

New Castle High Team Commences Training For 1931-32 Floor Season

Coach Phil Bridenbaugh Has Plenty Of Material From Which To Select Quintet

With football, the major menu on the Athletic program of the Senior high school over, basketball which is becoming a favorite pastime with the fans will provide the sport bugs of the city with excitement for the next three months. The New Castle high has commenced training for the floor season which will open December 18 with the New Castle cagers opposing Scott high, 1930 champions of Pennsylvania.

Place Unknown

Just where the local Red and Black jerseyed passers will strut their stuff this year is still unknown. The Athletic council will meet soon and decide once for all where the Senior high team will play. The George Washington junior high floor is wanted, but whether this court will be secured will have to be discovered later. The News recently held a poll of sentiment to find out which floor the fans would prefer watching the basketball aspirants of this city play and about three fourths of the followers would like to see New Castle play on the George Washington floor.

For the past few years the local institution has been predominant in the basketball sport world. For the past four or five years the Tin City has sent a representative to the Pitt University in the W. P. I. A. L. tourney. To make any anticipations would be ridiculous. Judging from the material Coach Phil Bridenbaugh and his associates, Ralph H. Gardner, Klee and Thomas have dug up from the city, New Castle may be represented by as smooth a quintet as has pranced the wooden auditorium for some years.

Good Material

Scanning over the names of the candidates who hope to be among the first five to be selected to represent Senior high on the court one finds that the material on hand would make any coach feel happy.

Although Francis Wainio, New Castle's "big moment" will be missing from the lineup, there are cagers who may turn out to be just as good as the lanky blonde. Andy Lasky last season's center is back again and has commenced practicing. He sustained a broken collar bone in football but the physician stated that he will be able to participate in the indoor sport.

Nick Uram, W. P. I. A. L. from last season who also received a broken collar bone will again be seen in action. He is a guard. His brother John, fast as a gazelle will be out in the hope of securing a position. Bus Reiber a new find late in the season is also back again and will be among the contenders for a position. George Winter, Edward Marin, Ludwig Ostrosky, Tony Cooper, and William Ciccone from last season have started training.

Joseph Kolodjeski, a member of Polish Falcons of this city is being groomed for a berth on the quintet. He is an accomplished cager who should make the team if he lives up to expectations. He has compiled an enviable record on the different courts in the city. Norman Nocera small but a crafty cager contemplates bidding for a berth.

There are several other passers who have come up from the junior high school in quest of a berth on the quintet. Much can not be said of them. They will have to demonstrate their wares. Coach Bridenbaugh should have a difficult time selecting his first string team this season.

The House of David team last year won 96 and lost 6 games and have the same lineup this season, and for that reason the Saints will be hard pressed for a victory. Coach Fraser has been using Kulick, Gennock at forwards, Alexander and Parker at center and Uhle and Jones on the guards. Lackey, Rowe and Mancine and Volesko are giving the first named boys a tough battle to hold their posts.

The Saints have been practicing for the past several weeks and are in tiptop shape.

The St. Mary's auditorium has undergone renovation and the floor entirely gone over. "Jokey" Travers, business manager is ready to handle a big crowd.

Gersons will play the Y. M. H. C. club of Farrell on the Anshe Emeth Temple court, Elm and Park avenues, Youngstown, Wednesday evening. The Farrell five is made up of the majority of Jewish League championship players of last season. New Castle Yellow Jackets, a girls team, will oppose ex-High girls of Farrell in a preliminary game. Boys rules will prevail. Following the game there will be dancing. Jack Gerson will be in attendance at the first game.

Here And There In Sports' Land

Tony Herrera and Johnny Jadick will be watched by fistic eyes tonight as Tony dropped a peg when the Philadelphian took the decision from him in their first bout. Tony is favored to win over Jadick tonight at Pittsburgh.

John D. Reese, known as "Bone-setter" to folk all over the country, passed away at his home in Youngstown yesterday evening. He was 76 and had been in poor health for some time.

Dodger Trade Dope Abound

(Central Press)

BROOKLYN, N. Y., Nov. 30. — There are more rumors buzzing around the Brooklyn National league ball club than there are fans who think they know best how to run a team—and that's saying a lot—in Flatbush.

Since Max Carey was elevated to the driver's seat, replacing the rotund Wilbert Robinson, there have been many reports that quite a number of Brooklyn players will be earning their wheatcakes and coffee money elsewhere next summer.

One report has Johnny Frederick going and an effort being made for Taylor Douthit of the Cincinnati Reds as new center fielder.

Ernie Lombardi, who was a spring sensation as a catcher and then did a fadeout in mid-season may, rumor hath it, relegated to the third string or worse.

Infielders Wally Gilbert, Fresco Thompson and Jack Warner also may not be brightening the Brooklyn corners when the roll is called next spring.

Add to this the fact that not a few of the veteran Brooklyn boxmen—Dazzy Vance, Jack Quinn, Joe Shaute, Adolfo Luque and Lefty Heimach—may be offered for sale or trade and you have enough rumors to keep every Brooklyn hot stove league double-headers all season.

SHEEP HILL WINS FROM OAKLAND, 20-0

Sheep Hill won from Oakland 20 to 0 on the Glasser field Saturday. DiMuccio, Champ, DiThomas and Millione played well for Sheep Hill while Chill, Gross, Rabbi and DeLone played a good game for Oakland. Bongivengo and F. Marcella were the officials.

Suggests Colleges Take Out Insurance On Football Players

By FRANK G. MENKE
International News Service Sports Editor

NEW YORK, Nov. 30.—Why not insurance for football players against crippling injury or death on fields of gridiron conflict?

Why shouldn't colleges, which are enriched from $200,000 to beyond $1,000,000 annually, through the efforts of its athletic students, spend a small portion of those funds to insure the squads, whose limbs and lives are exploited by colleges to build up bigger and bulkier treasuries?

Thirty Meet Death

Death's roll call reveals that 30 youths so far have surrendered their lives in football play in 1931.

Saddened fellow students grieved over their passing; coaches uttered stereotyped tributes; pious faculties spoke words befitting the occasion and then these boys, once so vibrant and full of health and life and ambition, and the joy of living, were lowered into the graves, where they now are mouldering into dust.

Their mortal existence is at an end; their smiles are gone and their laughter stilled forever. Their manly, kindly ways are but memories for those who gave all they had to bring them to maturity and prepare them for professional careers.

Lives Sacrificed

These boys are sacrifices to the something that is called "Alma Mater." But would it not be better and more sincere to say that they died in the effort to build bigger and better bank accounts for colleges and schools where they played?

Inasmuch as football long since has ceased to be "a sport for sport's sake," and has been developed into a gigantic business enterprise which grosses profits up to $20,000,000 annually during nine business weeks, is it not pertinent to ask:

Who paid the last medical or surgical bills for these boys who died as result of football play?

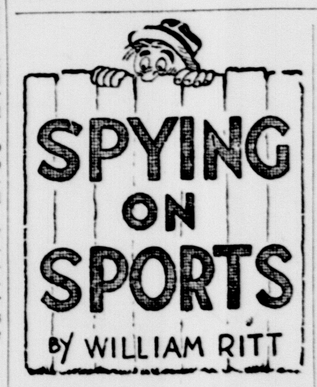

Who paid all the expenses of the dead hero's family which were incidental to his last injury and death?

Who paid for the burial of the body of the boy whose youthful strength and whose prowess was exploited so that colleges might swell the already enormous football fund?

Need Protection

If these youths had been killed while working in some industrial plant, their bereaved would have been protected financially by the workmen's compensation act. If they had met death in a train wreck, been crushed by a truck or gone to their valhalla through some other accidents, monied compensation would have been given to those loved ones who survived.

But because these boys died while playing football for "Alma Maters," which Alma Maters were profiting tremendously through their every effort on the football field then, colleges assume exception from damages even though football is a business as intensified and as highly commercialized as any that can be found listed in Dun's or Bradstreets's.

Central Press Sports Editor.

Pedro Tortilla, our Mexican brother, has gone Uncle Sam in his sports.

Probably discovering that his great hero, the toreador, was no more or less than a first-class tosser of the well known bull Pedro has turned to those twin American organized exercises—baseball and football—and found them delectable to his sporting taste.

Pedro is still many years away from having his own particular club in a world series or an eleven capable of giving Southern California, Tulane, Notre Dame or Northwestern a roughing—but he's learning!

At present the Mexicans have made more progress in baseball than football. Probably because the nervous tension of baseball seems to appeal to the Latin-American temperament more than the gridiron game.

A barnstorming Memphis Southern league team discovered this fall to its sorrow just how well Pedro and his pals had learned his diamond lessons.

In nine games between the Memphis outfit and a Mexican club called the Aztecas, the Mexicans won the verdict.

The Aztecas followed this fine showing by taking four out of seven games and playing one tie with the Dallas club of the Texas league.

The Texas league and Southern association are class A circuits. The result of these series then can be interpreted as indicating that at least one Mexican baseball team is superior to class A American baseball, which puts the Mexican nine on a par with the class AA clubs (American Association, Pacific Coast and International leagues).

In football Mexico has made progress.

The game was introduced in the southern republic just three years ago and now there are more than a dozen elevens playing in the vicinity of Mexico City.

The University of Mexico has developed a team—tutored by the Yale men—which could defeat some of our smaller college elevens.

"Mexico today," says Fred Linehan, a Yale guard last year and now a coach at the Mexican school, "really has a team on a par with Bates, the University of Maine, Colby and other college elevens of their class."

Mexico has already developed its first All-American—or rather All-Mexican player. He is Ernesto Miranda, a smart, aggressive player who is a fine tackler. Captain Landa also compares favorably with the better American players and is the star end of the Mexican eleven.

South Hills Tops Oakland

South Hills football team won a 19-0 verdict over the Oakland gridders in a game played on the Oakland field.

When Army Mule Started to Buck

Here's one of the incidents in the grid battle that ensued when Army and Notre Dame clashed at the Yankee Stadium, New York, in a drizzle of snow and rain. Kilday, of the Army, is shown well tackled after he had bucked the Irish line for a five-yard gain in the first period. The Cadets, with the victory of Southern California over Notre Dame having proved the vulnerability of their opponents, played the game of their lives. Inclemency of the weather failed to dampen the enthusiasm of eighty thousand spectators.

Singer-Chocolate Match Arranged

Al Singer Will Get Chance To Win Back Lightweight Championship

WINNER WILL MEET TONY CANZONERI

By LES CONKLIN
International News Service Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Nov. 30.—Al Singer, the "built-up" champion who lost his lightweight crown to Tony Canzoneri last year after a brief tenure, may get another shot at the 135-lb. title.

Singer has been matched for a bout with Kid Chocolate, junior lightweight champion, on the New York American Christmas fund card at Madison Square Garden on Dec. 11. The winner will be in line for a return bout with Canzoneri, who scored a close decision over Chocolate recently.

The Singer-Chocolate contracts were to be signed this afternoon when the distance of the bout also will be decided. Chocolate favors fifteen rounds while Singer is holding out for twelve.

The two fighters set a record gate for little fellows when they met at Yankee Stadium here in 1929. The receipts were $225,000, with Chocolate gaining the verdict by a close margin.

Singer, who retired from the ring after being stopped by Canzoneri in one round, started a comeback six months ago and has been displaying much of his old form.

Chocolate will "tune up" for the Singer fight tonight when he boxes Maxie Leiner here at a benefit show. Part of the proceeds will be donated to Black Bill, Cuban flyweight and Chocolate's pal, who has gone blind.

Gate At Charity Game $75,000, Deficit Is $21,000

BOSTON, Nov. 30.—Mayor James M. Curley has been informed that the Boston College-Holy Cross football game, played at the Harvard Stadium Thursday for Boston's unemployed, had resulted in a deficit of $21,000. A report on gross receipts of $75,000 was made by Harvard A. A., which supervised the tickets.

Expenses of the game included, Mayor Curley said, guarantees of $30,000 each to the two teams; $15,000 to the Boston Red Sox for rental of Fenway Park, where the game was to have been played originally; $3,000 for operating the Stadium, and $18,000 for printing, officials and advertising and incidentals, a total of $96,000.

A large share of the land owners in Sandy Lake and Worth townships have forbidden deer hunting on their land as a "matter of protection to their stock and the residents of the district".

Need Rainfall In Schuylkill District

HARRISBURG, Nov. 30.—"The situation with regard to water supply in the Schuylkill District is not alarming at present," said Assistant Chief Engineer H. E. Moses, of the Department of Health today. At present there is a considerable deficiency in rainfall for that section."

Storage water in the various reservoirs of that district, stand at about 50% of capacity, on an average. This is not alarming, unless we should enter a period of light rainfall covering several weeks. In that event the situation would become more tense.

CITY SALARIES ARE CUT 10 PER CENT

ALLIANCE, O., Nov. 30.—Facing a deficit of approximately $55,000, city council voted to slash salaries of all city employes to the extent of 10 per cent. This cut will mean a saving of $20,000, but will not nearly make up the deficit the city will have in its 1932 operations. Other cuts will be resorted to in order to avoid a deficit, city officials say.

NEW YORK STOCKS

Moderate Recovery Is Shown By Stocks

By W. S. COUSINS
International News Service Financial Editor

NEW YORK, Nov. 30.—Under the lead of the rails, which moved up a point or two from Saturday's final prices, the whole market staged a moderate recovery in the early trading today. Wheat started the new week about a cent a bushel higher, while Cotton advanced 10 points.

A severe slump of 11½ points in Sterling Exchange, with the British Pound quoted at 3.42½, the lowest since England suspended the gold standard, was the feature of the foreign exchange markets. Further withdrawals from London and the recent heavy dumping of outside goods to beat the new tariff impositions, were largely responsible for the weakness in Sterling.

New York Central sold up about 2½ points at 30¾, and New Haven rallied 3⅝ to 26¾, leading the early recovery of the rails. United States Steel moved up about a point to 54¾; American Tel and Tel 2 points to 127½ and American Tobacco B 1½ points to 90. American Can, General Electric and General Motors rose fractionally.

Babcock Dismisses 150 Workers From Pittsburgh Posts

Chairman Babcock Cuts Payroll To Save $50,000 Per Month

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, Nov. 30.—One hundred and fifty employees of the Allegheny County Department of Public Works were dismissed today by chairman E. V. Babcock of the Board of County Commissioners.

The dismissals, Babcock said, will effect a savings of $50,000 for the county by the first of the year and were made because the county did not have the funds to continue the workers on the payroll.

His order takes effect at the end of work today.

"We had to lay off every non-essential worker," Babcock said. "It's hard to do this Christmas month but we had to do something to reduce operating expenses. There are no politics involved and I did it for the best interests of the county.

"Commissioner McGovern, who is in Bermuda, was not consulted."

Stock Prices Are Pushed Up

Stocks Recover About Noon And Start Slow Rise In Price

By W. S. COUSINS
International News Service Financial Editor

NEW YORK, Nov. 30.—Stocks turned upward at the beginning of the week, sagged near the noon period and pushed ahead for a new rally in the early afternoon.

A 13 1-2-point break in the pound Sterling, and the failure of grain prices to hold after the first hour unsettled the stock market at midday, but short covering by the professionals and outside investment buying prevented further sagging in prices. Sterling Cables were quoted as low as 3.40 1-2, compared with 3.45 when the first shock of the British suspension of gold payments was administered to the market. German government 5 1-2s and German Republic 7s fell to the year's lowest prices.

Little Change Today.

There was little change in the financial and business outlook, but Wall Street was inclined to take the cheerful view of the situation. One favorable feature was the apparent drying up of the source of selling of railroad bonds, which held more steadily than in any of last week's sessions.

Railroad stocks started the week at slightly higher prices, sagged at mid-day and recovered slightly as the session advanced.

New York Central climbed back to 31 for a 3-point gain, and New Haven rose about 3½ to 26¾. Atchison, Union Pacific, Southern Pacific, Great Northern, Baltimore & Ohio, and Chesapeake and Ohio moved up from a fraction of 1½ points in a dull and featureless market.

United States Steel won back 2 points of last 7-point drop. General Motors was a weak spot in the industrials and fell off to a new low on the move at 23¾.

PREPARING PAPERS FOR SCHOOL EXAMS.

Committees appointed to prepare examination papers for county schools will meet at the Shenango township school on December 9, according to County Superintendent, John C. Syling. Committees on each branch taught will submit lists of questions. These will be modeled somewhat after the standard printed tests that have heretofore been used. When the list is completed they will be mimeographed, thus saving considerable expense as against the purchase of the standard test papers.

GRAND JURY WILL CONVENE ON MONDAY

Grand jury for the December term of criminal court will convene on next Monday morning for the consideration of cases to be presented by District Attorney John Powers. The list has been considerably shortened by pleas which were entered on last Saturday, and other pleas which were previously made.

Prothonotary R. M. Campbell has made up a list of cases to be placed on the argument list which will be issued this week.

Insanity Hearing Granted Woman Slayer By Court

"Dream Slayer" Will Face Insanity Test—Petition To Court Is Granted

WOMAN CONFESSES KILLING YOUNG MAN

(International News Service)

KINGWOOD, W. Va., Nov. 30—Mrs. Evelyn Harader, 45, alleged "dream slayer" of Cecil F. Michael, 25 year old Clifton Mills postmaster and merchant, today was granted a sanity hearing when she appeared before Judge A. G. Hughes here.

Judge Hughes consented to the request of counsel when a petition was presented bearing the names of more than a score of the woman's friends who stated they did not believe she was sane.

Woman Confesses

Mrs. Harader, wife of a Uniontown, Pa., newspaperman, was said to have confessed the shooting to Coroner H. Foster Hartman a short time after Michael's shot-riddled body was found. Hartman said the woman admitted shooting Michael because he "said things about me." Later, she was reported to have told police that she shot Michael because she received a message in a dream.

If she is found sane at this time, Judge Hughes said he would order her placed on trial regardless of the condition of her mind at the time of the shooting.

Defense attorneys said today they would use the instanity plea if the woman is brought to trial.

There are 400,000 inventions detailing railroad patents and they are still being issued at the rate of 125 each week. Many are useless but many others valuable in saving life and property. One of the useless inventions was designed to prevent a locomotive from falling over when it was motionless.

Explosion Near Charleston Today, Fatal To Miner —Seek Rescue Of Two Trapped

WATER BEGINS FLOODING MINE

(International News Service)

CHARLESTON, W. Va., Nov. 30.—One man was killed and two others were entombed and probably dead in the No. 1 mine of the Monitor Coal and Coke company near here today which was ripped by an explosion, believed to have been local in character.

The body of James Minnick, 45, was recovered from the blast-torn workings two hours after the explosion. Rescue crews, under the direction of J. F. White and W. B. Lepage, safety directors of the State Department of Mines, worked feverishly to reach Frank Thomas and Will Ball, who were entrapped by the explosion.

Little hope was held by the rescue crews that the two entombed men would be found alive. The victims of the blast were members of a machine crew drilling a new tunnel.

Rescue work was hampered by water which began flooding the mine following the blast.

Rabbi Philo Is Rotary Speaker

Youngstown Orator Makes Address At Noon Meeting Here

Education of the younger generation along the lines of world peace was advocated today as one of the most certain ways of developing a mutual good will and understanding between the nations of the world when Rabbi I. E. Philo of Youngstown, nationally known orator, addressed the city's Rotary Club in The Castleton.

Rabbi Philo based his scholarly and forceful address on a theme bearing upon Rotary's sixth objective, the promotion of good will, understanding and international accord. He spoke on "Is World Peace Possible?"

The eloquent message brought out other channels through which the worlds might foster a permanent peace, which the Rabbi declared is possible. The discourse was one of the most brilliant heard by the Rotarians in weeks.

During a brief business session, the club was told that the Rotary Anns, wives of the members, are planning a dinner event for December 11.

Guests present today included Marcus Feutchwanger, Emanuel Shenkan, A. H. Gonick, Rabbi Avery Jonah Grossfield, William Cosel and Bert Cosel, all of this city. The visiting rabbi is a member of Youngstown's Rotary club.

Vice President J. F. Rentz presided in President L. B. Round's absence.

Oil Industry In Need Of Action For Protection

Congress Should Act To Protect Oil Industry From Cheap Imports

IMPORTERS HAVE SHOWN PROFIT

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Nov. 30.—Congress must protect the American oil industry against cheap foreign imports, even if President Hoover fails to make such a recommendation in his annual message, it was predicted today by Senator Thomas (D) of Oklahoma.

Thomas declared the fact that 1932 will be a campaign year will force congress to pass upon oil legislation. He assailed the conservation argument of those who oppose congressional action on the oil issue, declaring there was no danger of exhausting the American supply. He added that every allegation that the American oil wells were being exhausted had been "exploded as fast as it was made."

Importers Profit.

"The independent oil producers of the nation have shut in their wells until production of oil in this country has fallen far below consumption while the importers of cheap foreign oil have profited at the expense of those who have been trying to stabilize one of the basic industries of the nation," said Thomas.

"The question at issue is clear: shall we stimulate the return of national prosperity by shutting off the floods of cheap foreign oil, which are enriching only a handful of capitalists, while vast numbers of workers and farmers are reduced to penury and the markets which they would normally offer to the industrial sections of the nation are deprived of buying power."

Communities Are Ready To Relieve Suffering, Report

All Communities In Nation Ready To Take Care Of Need This Winter

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Nov. 30.—Every community of the nation will be prepared to relieve suffering among the jobless during the winter President Hoover was assured today in a letter by Walter S. Gifford, director of the president's emergency relief committee.

There was every indication, Gifford said, that "every state will take care of its own this winter."

"Funds specially earmarked for unemployment relief are some 50 per cent greater than last year," Gifford observed, "indicating that the people of the country are keenly aware of the need and are determined to meet it.

"I can report," Gifford wrote Mr. Hoover, "that in practically all communities requiring organized effort to meet unemployment this winter, such organization is either completed and functioning or is expected to be in the near future."

Senate Committee Hears Arguments On Short Selling

Senate Agricultural Committee Hears Arguments Pro And Con On Short Selling

GRAIN OFFICIAL REMAINS FIRM

By WILLIAM K. HUTCHINSON
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Nov. 30.—A clash between western senators and Siebel C. Harris, representative of all the grain exchanges, over a priority of short selling, featured the senate agricultural committee's inquiry Saturday into the Federal Farm Board's estimated loss of $225,000,000 in its efforts to stabilize wheat and cotton prices.

While western senators called short selling "gambling" Harris insisted it was necessary to insure stability to the grain markets. He said short selling protected the producer against price risks, and protested vigorously against any legislative ban or promise.

Assail Short Selling

Senators Frazier (R) of North Dakota, Norbeck (R) of South Dakota and Thomas (D) of Oklahoma, meanwhile assailed short selling as gambling. Frazier said there was evidence that professional bears had recently raided the grain market in order to wreck the price of wheat. He attributed the recent 19 per cent slump in wheat prices to uncontrolled short selling.

Harris, who spoke as chairman of the grain committee on national affairs for all the exchanges, defended the conduct of grain markets and the practice of short selling. He said the grain exchanges were "the medium of enabling the farmer to obtain the best prices possible for his grain." He added the exchange could not have existed in the past unless it was fair to the farmers.

Harris called short selling "a form of insurance against price risk in which the merchandiser is the insured, and the speculator is the insurer."

Surpluses Dumped

Opposition to the agricultural marketing act, particularly its loans to cooperative associations, was expressed by C. L. Poole, president of the New York Mercantile Exchange, representing numerous butter and egg concerns.

Poole charged the grain and cotton growers should handle their surpluses like the butter and egg merchants did early this year. He said all surplus stocks were dumped on the market at any price that could be gotten and at a tremendous loss to the merchants. He said this plan cleared the market of the surplus.

Bishop Cannon's trial will serve one good purpose. By the time it's over, we'll know whether each comma in the election laws is constitutional.

ABE MARTIN — On Th' National Pastime

AN OVER EATIN' NATION

AN OVER EATIN' NATION

Those who thought that th' machinery o' th' stomach would git a chance t' relax with th' passin' o' th' liquor saloon wuz mistaken. Th' great national curse tday, next t' politics, is eatin'. Frequent an' intemperate eatin' threatens t' undermine th' nation unless some new an' allurin' national sport comes along t' take our minds off our stomachs. Th' high cost an' scarcity o' food brought about by the exigencies o' th' war seemed t' cause our torn nation t' turn t' eatin' fer solace. Other nations involved in th' terrible conflict fergot ther stomachs an' turned t' th' theater fer relaxation from sorrow an' despair, but we kept eatin' an' eatin' an' we're still eatin.'

If we wuz ever concerned about th' war ther's no trace of it t'day. Durin' th' food savin' campaigns when th' fate o' th' world hung by a thread, when th' problem o' feedin' all Europe an' our own millions o' men in arms wuz taxin' th' master minds o' th' nation, resturints, dairy lunch rooms, chili parlors an' cafes multiplied by th' thousan's. Drug stores an' soft drink dens added pies an' sandwiches t' ther wares, an' th' industry o' eatin' took on new life. T'day with th' war a thing o' th' past an' th' warehouses o' th' country bulgin' with food, we're eatin' more an' oftener than at any time in th' history o' th' world.

Thanksgivin' didn' mean a thing t' us 'cept th' banks wuz closed. We wuzn' any stupider after dinner than we are t'day after lunch. It only meant a switch from ever'thing else t' turkey. There used t' be a whole lot o' criticism o' th' feller that got pickled on Saturday night an' wuz flighty an' hazy till ten-thirty Monday mornin' but nothin's said o' th' countless thousan's that return from "lunch" ever' day unfit for work. Some floks used t' be able t' pass a saloon, but t'day nobuddy seems t' be able t' resist th' temptation t' eat. As a result o' our continual an' abnormal eatin' it has been necessary fer our purveyors o' food t' fix up new combinations, new blends, new messes an' dobs, new disguises fer ole favorites, an' as a result th' carrot is freely used, as well as turnips an' parsley an' bay leaves an' fragrant oily sauces, t' add charm t' kidneys, tripe, fillet o' neck, rubberoid hearts, sheep livers, ox tail joints, chicken necks, steer's knees an' other things we used t' wonder who et. We believe if we wuz a young man again we'd study t' be a doctor an' equip ourselves t' clean up in th' big boom in liver trouble that sooner or later 'll devastate th' country.

Volunteers Speed Canvass For Mission's Coupon Cause

Four logical advantages which the inauguration of the City Rescue Mission's new "ticket system" for aiding worthy men in need will likely bring about once the plan has had a fair trial, were advanced this morning by Superintendent B. J. Watkins, in announcing that additional Mission workers would take the field today to distribute the coupon booklets.

The superintendent said the plan is bound to protect the city's homes; it will put a stop to the drinking which many of the men do when they receive cash for the asking; it will give anyone an opportunity to reach the Mission by phone to verify stories they are liable to tell, and the plan will serve as a test to the men to determine whether or not they are willing to work.

Workers In Field

A delegation of 25 men were canvassing different parts of the city today, requesting residents to purchase the booklets at the price of 20 cents a ticket. There are five tickets to a book.

Superintendent Watkins said mistaken reports have conveyed the impression that its new system was intended first and primarily to aid out-of-town transients, but the opposite is said to be true. "It's our own worthy men here in New Castle, deserving of all the help they can get, that we plan to assist," he said.

Members of the city's Phalanx fraternity, young men's organization of the Y. M. C. A., will visit several districts of the city tonight to aid in the ticket distribution. The entire fraternity will assist.

Optimistic in every way, Mr. Watkins reported that so far the ticket distribution has brought favorable comment everywhere the volunteer distributors have called.

NEW YORK, Nov. 30.—Lya De Putti, who reached the heights of stardom through her art in creating vamp roles for the screen, was to be buried today in Woodlawn cemetery.

Thousands of curious streamed past her bier in a Broadway funeral parlor for a last look at the actress who died from blood poisoning complicated by pleurisy.

A solemn high requiem mass will be held for Miss De Putti at St. Patrick's Cathedral.

REVIVAL SERVICES CONTINUE THIS WEEK

The Evangelistic meetings conducted by Rev. George Burke, in the First Free Methodist Church, Arlington avenue, have increased in interest and attendance, and will continue through this week.

Rev. Burke is a man of God, a forceful speaker, preaching real Bible Salvation, is untiring in his efforts, and much good has been done.

Prayer meeting in the Prayer Room in rear of the Church at seven o'clock, song service in Auditorium at seven thirty, Evangelistic services at seven forty-five.

Bowknots of pearls decorate some of the new necklaces and bracelets.

Catarrhal Deafness May Be Overcome.

If you have catarrhal deafness or head noises go to New Castle Drug, Eckerd's or your druggist and get 1 oz. of Parmint (double strength) and add to it ¼ pint of hot water and a little sugar. Take 1 tablespoonful four times a day.

This will often bring quick relief from the distressing head noises. Clogged nostrils should open, breathing become easy and the mucous stop dropping into the throat. It is easy to prepare, costs little and is pleasant to take. Anyone who has catarrhal deafness or head noises should give this prescription a trial.
